Red China And Russia Drifting Apart, Says US State Department

By EDWARD E. BOMAR

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The state department took note today of reports that Red China and Soviet Russia are drifting apart.

The department's official bulletin in a review of happenings behind the iron curtain during 1951 led off with this comment on China:

"In China, one of the country's where food production has fallen in spite of so-called 'land reform', mass executions, and the liquidation of landlords, year-end reports describe a growing coolness between Peiping and Moscow."

Unrest Grows

The department did not enlarge on the point but said that in general "1951 proved to be an unhappy year behind the iron curtain."

"Month after month, and in country after country, the story has been the same," the summary said. "It is one of increasing dissatisfaction, unsuccessful repression, new purges, mass deportations, and other forms of Communist frightfulness in the now familiar Soviet pattern.

"In the free world, by contract, 1951 has been a year of rising strength, rising hope, and rising production, combining to build new bulwarks against Soviet aggression and promote the cause of peace."

The country by country survey of developments in the Soviet bloc included a report that more than 16,000 private industrial, trade and handcraft enterprises in the Soviet zone of Germany went out of business during the past 12 months.

More Like Hitler

"In Brussels an international commission of jurists heard testimony from former inmates of Soviet slave-labor camps and ruled that Soviet Union's oppression in this respect equalled that of Hitler," said the survey. "Prosecutor David Rousset estimated that between 15 million and 25 million persons are being worked as Soviet forced laborers. Assistant Prosecutor E. De Beer said 17 per cent of the total populations of Latvia and Lithuania had been arrested by Soviet authorities in these areas and that 60,000 Lithuanians had been deported to Russia.

"Troubles also mounted in the Soviet Union itself. x x x these reports, together with a rising tide of escapes and escape attempts as thousands of refugees left or tried to leave Russian territory, contributed additional detail to the story of Soviet troubles and human courage in resisting oppression."

Flood Crest Rolls Down Ohio; Worst Is Believed Over

PORTSMOUTH, O.—(AP) — The Ohio River flood crest—a wintertime sneak flood that drove upwards of 10,000 from their homes —swept to the doorstep of Gallipolis, O., today. But, its Sunday punch was about gone.

Bitter cold, the killer of floods, cut the crest to somewhat less damaging depths.

Rural Families Routed

The river rose slowly—if at all —at Roller Dam, 10 miles upstream from Gallipolis and at Gallipolis itself.

The U. S. Weather Bureau at Cincinnati indicated previous crest estimates probably would stand, or would be cut slightly. This would bring the Portsmouth crest to 58 feet and the Cincinnati crest to 59 feet.

In neither case would the flood damage be excessive.

Only a few warehouses would be inundated at Cincinnati and about 250 rural families—unprotected by Portsmouth's 77-foot flood wall—would be made refugees.

Cleanup Complicated

The winter cold, which pinned down into ice many tons of tributary flood waters and helped save the flood situation, caused other discomforts, however. It made the business of cleaning up after the flood crest passed a brutal task.

Instead of the customary digging out of mud and hosing down of floors, returning refugees upstream found themselves with the job of chopping away ice.

To the hazards of high water, transportation found itself slipping and sliding over glare ice on saturated roads.

The mercury dropped to eight degrees at Cincinnati, similar to temperatures that plagued and blessed the entire flood area.

Allies Retreat In Korea Slush

SEOUL, Korea — (AP) — Allied raiders today fought through slush and mud on the western Korean front almost to the top of a Chinese held hill but heavy resistance forced them to withdraw.

In a new air battle one Russian-type jet was sent flaming to earth as American Sabre jets took on MIG-15s.

Warm weather melted snows, turning sections of the 155 mile Korean ground front into a quagmire.

Allied raiders struck through this muck northwest of Chorwon before dawn, and ran into two hours of sharp fighting. The main body of the raiders fought up the slippery slopes of a Red held hill through heavy rifle and machine gun fire to within 50 yards of the crest. The U. N. infantrymen broke off the fight at 8:30 a. m., and pulled back to their own lines.

Dozens of small patrol actions erupted all along the front, particularly in Mundung valley near Heartbreak Ridge in the eastern mountains.

Eighteen F-86 Sabre jet pilots tangled with 12 MIGs in one of the unusual battles where American jets outnumbered the Reds near Congju, also in northwestern Korea, two MIGs jumped a flight of F-84 Thunderjets. U. S. Fifth Air Force said the Allied planes cut rails in 18 places despite the attack.

Egypt May Join Mid-East Pact

CAIRO, Egypt—(AP)—An Egyptian foreign office spokesman indicated today Egypt would join a middle east defense command if her current dispute with Britain is solved to this country's satisfaction.

The spokesman said this was the "personal impression" of the new premier, Aly Maher Pasha:

"If the other parts of the Egyptian case are dealt with satisfactorily from the Egyptian viewpoint, Egypt would naturally consider such participation favorably.

"The principle of participation of Egypt in a defense middle east pact in the framework of the charter of the United Nations is part of the whole Egyptian case.

The National Front (government) which is under formation at the moment will have to decide Egypt's attitude toward this question, as well as toward all other aspects of the Egyptian case."

The new strongman premier met with ambassadors of the four powers which last October proposed that Egypt join the West in a Middle East pact to defend the Suez canal.

Grunewald Up For Contempt Of Congress

By B. L. LIVINGSTONE

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The House Ways and Means Committee voted today to ask the House to cite Henry W. (The Dutchman) Grunewald, tax scandal "mystery" figure, for contempt of Congress.

The action followed recommendations of its tax investigating subcommittee, which tried unsuccessfully yesterday to crack the sphinx-like silence of the enigmatic Grunewald.

Attorney Too Noisy

No immediate action, however, was taken on a second recommendation that Grunewald's voluble attorney, William Power Maloney, also be cited for contempt. Maloney was ejected from the committee room yesterday for protesting the proceedings.

The House is expected to act soon, possibly this week, on the contempt proceedings against Grunewald.

While this was not the first time Grunewald has been in bad with a Congressional committee, he now faces up to a year in jail and a $10,000 fine if eventually found in contempt by the House and federal courts.

Shakedown Scanned

The subcommittee, which has been digging into tax fraud scandals, started contempt proceedings yesterday after Grunewald offered only studied silence to questions about what he knew of a purported $500,000 tax fix

Atlanta Bride No War Widow

ATLANTA — (AP)—Pvt. Walter B. Dixon, an "Enoch Arden" of the Korean war, is alive, a judge ruled yesterday, and annulled the second marriage of his pretty, blonde wife.

Judge E. E. Andrews of Fulton county superior court voided Mrs. Agnes Dixon Sasser's marriage to Pfc. William Sasser after deciding that Dixon, first reported killed in Korean fighting, is actually a prisoner of the Chinese Communists.

Mrs. Dixon asked the annulment after receiving a letter from Dixon Jan. 2. She told the court that defense department experts confirmed that the letter was written by the husband she once believed dead.

The 22-year-old blonde, a civilian employee at Ft McPherson near Atlanta, last September married Sasser, a soldier stationed at the fort. Dixon was reported killed in May, 1951

Mrs. Dixon received the first word that her husband was alive when the Communists published a prisoner-of-war list shortly before Christmas.

Building Delayed

DETROIT — (AP)—City officials said completion of the substructure of the city-county building may be delayed six months by a cut in requested allocations of copper and steel. The National Production Authority allotted 650 pounds of copper instead of the 4,000 pounds asked by the city and 400 tons of steel against a request for 600.

US Admiral Named Supreme Atlantic Naval Commander

LONDON— (AP) —U. S. Admiral Lynde D. McCormick has been named supreme commander of western naval forces in the North Atlantic, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization announced today.

Adm. McCormick presently is commander of the U. S. Atlantic fleet.

His NATO command will extend up to but will not include the coastal area of the British Isles, an agreement reached by President and Prime Minister Winston Churchill during Churchill's recent visit to the United States.

McCormick, a Virginian, had long been considered the most logical choice as the new "Sea-going Eisenhower." He is a former vice chief of naval operations.

There had been considerable delay in making the appointment because of Britain's desire to see a Briton in the top command. Churchill, on his last visit to Washington, yielded to the appointment of an American. This was a surprise concession.

City Of Ishpeming Rated Cleanest Of Its Size In Nation

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Ishpeming, Mich., is the cleanest city of its size in the nation and Detroit is second only to Philadelphia among the country's largest cities.

So says the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association.

The association picked its cities on the basis of accomplishments made during a national "clean up, paint up, fix up" week.

It awarded its Ernest T. Trigg trophy, given to the country's most slicked up town, to Memphis, Tenn., and Philadelphia, as co-winners.

Legislators Decide To Cut Off Funds For State Building

LANSING —(AP)— House and Senate appropriations committees were reported reliably today to have decided tentatively to authorize no new institutional construction next year and to use the state's budget of the last fiscal year as a base for next year's appropriations.

Committee members, who declined to be quoted, said the two committees had decided on a "substantial" reduction in construction, or capital outlay, funds.

College Projects Halted

These will be limited to finishing projects already started, they said.

The committees reportedly have instructed a sub-committee on capital outlay to report by Monday night how much money would be needed to complete current projects.

The governor's budget recommended $18,000,000 worth of construction—old and new— plus about $20,000,000 from the $65,000,000 hospital construction bond issue. The committeemen said the "hold down" decision did not

Investigators Ready To Check On McGrath

By B. L. LIVINGSTONE

WASHINGTON— (AP) — House investigators began clearing the ground today for an investigation that may go deep into the personal and official activities of Attorney General McGrath.

Matters proposed for inquiry already include McGrath's reputed race track interests, and his one-time role of $15,000-a-year trustee of a Rhode Island trust connected with the textile firm of Textron, Inc.

Delays Charged

Investigators also have been presented with charges of "unwarranted" interference with federal grand juries and of prosecution failures or delays by the justice department.

McGrath and the department became the subject of an investigation by the House judiciary committee yesterday in what was reported to be a unanimous action of the 16 Democrat and 13 Republican members.

The action was taken on a resolution by Rep. Keating (R.-NY) authorizing a seven-man subcommittee to put the Congressional spotlight on the justice department and the attorney general's office.

It places McGrath in the dual role of investigator and investigatee

Setbacks Received

McGrath is having trouble getting an investigation of his own started. This one was ordered by President Truman and is aimed at corruption or influence peddling in any government agency or department.

McGRATH

The attorney general, it was learned, has received at least three setbacks in his efforts to get a special prosecutor to direct the probe. One came when former Secretary of War Robert Patterson was killed in an airplane crash at Elizabeth, N. J. McGrath's friends had regarded Patterson as a "Natural" for the job.

Two other prominent lawyers—Cody Fowler of Tampa and Miami, Fla., and William E. Leahy of Washington, have declined the post.

Dixie Democrats Boost Sen. Russell

By EDWIN B. HAAKINSON

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Southern Democrats today were reported putting heavy pressure on Senator Richard B. Russell of Georgia to formally enter the party's presidential race.

At the same time, Senator Maybank (D-S. C.) heatedly denied that Russell's backers are out "to stop" Senator Kefauver (D-Tenn), President Truman, or any other Democrat.

Walkout Recalled

"I hope Senator Russell will allow us to nominate him," Maybank told a reporter. "His friends are not limited to Southern Democrats."

Senator Maybank said he entertained Gov. James F. Byrnes of South Carolina here this weekend. Byrnes, former Secretary of State, U. S. Senator and Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, has been highly critical of the President and his "Fair Deal" in recent months.

The activity among Southern Democrats recalled the walk-out staged at the 1948 convention—by all 22 Mississippi delegates and half of the 26 Alabama delegates.

New Hampshire First

Other Southerners stayed behind to pile up 263 votes for Senator Russell while President Truman won the nomination with 947½ votes.

Saving Nickel Is Damp Trick

HUNTINGTON, W. Va.— (AP) — Husky James M. Mooney shoved a nickel at toll-taker Azel Ramey on the Ohio River bridge and demanded: "Now are you satisfied?"

The payoff completed a wet, 20-mile, 20-hour circle for the 33-year-old North Kenova, O., steelworker. It began Monday night when Mooney, admitting he had "had a few," refused to pay his pedestrian toll because he didn't like the way Ramey asked for it.

He jumped into the flood-swollen river when police, called by Ramey, chased him to the middle of the bridge. The river was too rough for the fire rescue squad to put out a boat and it was assumed Mooney had drowned.

Late yesterday, Mooney explained to Detective Chief Herman Frazier that he came to the surface five blocks downstream and began swimming. The steamboat George T. Price, on its way to Cincinnati, was passing and Mooney grabbed hold.

He dried his clothes in the boiler room, dressed again and was put ashore at Kenova, W. Va., 10 miles below the bridge. Catching a bus back to Huntington, he was picked up by police after his creaseless clothes aroused suspicion.

Mooney was released without charge after promising Frazier, "next time I will sure pay that guy a nickel regardless of how he asks for it."

Ministers Invited To Check On Beer Binge At Ft. Custer

BATTLE CREEK, Mich.—(AP)—A committee of ministers from Battle Creek churches had an invitation today from the commanding officer of Fort Custer to check up on a Methodist minister's charges of beer drinking at the fort.

Col. James C. Short issued a challenge to "anyone to find a community of 11,000 residents in Michigan where there is less chance for a boy to go astray than at Fort Custer."

The officer indignantly denied charges made by the Rev. J. Paul Pumphrey, pastor of the Methodist church at Marlette, Mich.

Pumphrey's charges were made in an article captioned "What I Saw in Two Army Camps." The article appeared in the Michigan Christian Advocate, a Methodist publication.

The minister claimed he found drinking at Fort Custer and also at Camp Breckenridge, Ky.

He concluded his article by urging Methodists to write their congressmen to voice disapproval of Universal Military Training.

"What I found when I visited Custer in December made me sick, disgusted and angry," the minister said. He reported that in one of the smaller post exchanges at Custer he saw soldiers buying beer. He asserted he saw tables filled with empty beer bottles and surrounded by soldiers and their girl friends.

"Many of these soldiers and girls were obviously under the influence," the minister said, "and I saw several who were unable to walk steady when they went back for more beer."

Col. Short said Pumphrey's allegations were absolutely untrue. Service clubs at Custer have never sold beer, the officer said. He added he was deeply offended by implications about the women the minister saw on the post.

In the reception center area, 3.2 beer is sold in a separate building, Col. Short said. He added this was permitted by Congress on all military reservations.

Progress Made In Negotiations For Armistice

By ROBERT B. TUCKMAN

MUNSAN, Korea — (AP)—Communist negotiators in a double reversal today agreed to the Allies rotating 25,000 troops a month during an armistice and said Chinese would join in administering the demilitarized zone.

The Reds balked, however, at restraints on moving their troops secretly into threatening concentrations during an armistice.

Previously the Communists had agreed to rotating only 5,000 U. N. troops. The Allies are asking for 75,000 a month.

Action Reversed

Yesterday the Reds indicated the Chinese would take no part in civil administration of the northern half of a buffer zone during an armistice. Today they reversed it.

All these actions were taken by staff officers working their way slowly through an 18-page Allied draft of a plan for supervising an armistice.

The Reds objected to two security proposals:

1. That both sides refrain from concentrating troops and guns in a manner to threaten the other side.

2. Both sides to report weekly the exact location of all major ground, naval and air units.

A U. N. command communique said the staff office "continued to make progress" on truce supervision.

Key Issues Unsolved

The Red agreement to rotating 25,000 Allied troops, while far short of Allied requests, represented a major change in the Com-

John L. Lewis Takes On Taft

WASHINGTON — (AP)—Senator Taft (R-Ohio) and John L. Lewis hooked up in a bitter name-calling clash at a Senate committee hearing today. Lewis termed the Taft-Hartley law "a slave act."

Lewis wound up with this broadside at the GOP presidential hopeful:

"If you are ever elected president, Mr. Taft, and Joe Stalin should ask you about the Taft-Hartley slave act, I don't know how you'll answer him."

"I can handle Stalin all right," Taft retorted. "And I managed to handle the workers of Ohio."

He was obviously referring to his overwhelming reelection as Senator in 1950 when his authorship of the labor law was a primary issue.

Earlier, Taft had accused Lewis of injecting a "red herring" into Senate hearings on mine safety.

Taft said it is "entirely untrue" that miners are denied the right to walk out of unsafe mines because of the labor law Taft co-authored.

Williams Hints Veto For June Primary Bill

LANSING — (AP) — Governor Williams hinted yesterday at a second veto of a Republican-sponsored measure to move Michigan's primary election from early September to the second Tuesday in June.

The bill was reported favorably by the Senate elections committee yesterday after it was given the green light by a Senate G. O. P. caucus.

The governor refused to say whether he would veto the measure—as he did last year—but he called the bill "unnecessary."

Democrats See Trick

Williams said it was "absolutely untrue"—as Republicans claimed—that an additional 54 days are needed between the primary and general elections to permit servicemen abroad to vote in the general election.

This has been the Republican argument for the bill.

Democrats contend it really is designed to allow the G. O. P. to pick candidates for governor and United States Senator and get them on the campaign trail two months earlier than usual in an attempt to overtake the hard-campaigning Williams and U. S. Senator Moody (D-Mich).

Campaign Short

The federal post office and defense departments, Williams said, report that not more than 36 additional days are needed to allow the servicemen to vote from the nation's farthest base, Iran.

This, he said, can be accomplished if the legislature will permit relatives of servicemen to register them and obtain absent voter ballots for them.

The governor argued at a press conference that Michigan should not abandon its short and concentrated election campaign, which now runs from September to November.

The Senate passed bills to:

Punish receivers of embezzled property, raise Wayne county jury fees from $2 to $5 a day, require the Pine Lake vocational school to remain a veterans' institution, give disabled veterans of all wars the same unlimited parking privileges now given veterans of World War II, and legalize the Star of David as a symbol of funeral processions, now limited to a purple cross.

Blow At Communists

The House scheduled a vote on a bill designed to cripple the Communist party in Michigan. It was advanced yesterday without debate.

The measure requires registration of Communists and members of Communist front organizations with the state police. It forbids Communists to run for public office and forbids their holding any position, the salary of which is paid with public funds. Felony penalties are set up in the bill for sabotage.

An identical bill passed the House unanimously last year but it died in a Senate committee.

Bank Teller Lunches And Takes $38,224

NEW YORK—(AP)—A Brooklyn bank teller failed to return from lunch yesterday, and the bank said $38,224 in cash had vanished from his cage.

But $23,798 was left behind, said an official of the Chemical Bank and Trust Company's downtown Brooklyn branch.

Police sent out a 13-state alarm for Martin G. Olsen, 36, and said he was wanted for embezzlement and larceny.

Olsen had worked in the bank about a year.

Social Security Taxes Due March 15 For Self-Employed

Tax returns for some 1,000 self-employed persons in Delta county will soon be due, according to Carl L. Johnson, manager of the social security field office in Escanaba. Some of the tax returns which will be part of the regular personal income tax return will be due not later than March 15.

According to Johnson, the social security tax on your net earnings must be paid at one time so it will be well to be prepared to have available a sum ranging from $9.00 to $81, depending on self-employment during the year 1951. The social security tax is 2¼ per cent of net earnings up to $3,600.

Johnson pointed out that the tax return calls for the taxpayers' social security number so that he will be properly credited with his earnings. Applications may be secured at the local postoffice or at the local Michigan Employment Security Commission office.

Earmarked Road Funds Assures Better Highways For Michigan

HIGHWAY COMMISSIONER CHARLES M. ZIEGLER'S assurance of action in the improvement of US-2-41 between Escanaba and Gladstone, as requested by the Delta County Road Commission, is another indication of the wisdom of Michigan's practice of earmarking highway revenues for highway purposes.

Without such revenues—an assured income for Michigan roads—no highway comissioner would be in a position to program highway improvements. He would not know from one session of the Legislature to the next whether the funds would be available.

Michigan people were among the first in the nation to adopt into the constitution provisions which set aside revenues from state automobile weight and gasoline tax for financing road work.

The money comes from the motorists and is put back into the highways which they must have to operate their cars. It is a basically fair and equitable approach to the problem of financing better highways for those who use them.

Many states still do not earmark road revenues for road purposes. The result has been chaotic. In those states the funds from the motorists go into the state general fund, there to be disbursed at the whim of the Legislature or as "need" dictated. Pet programs often received priority over roads, and highway users saw highway funds go for pork-barrel projects.

In Michigan this is impossible—and that is well. Despite the state deficit and the admited hardship in some Michigan departments, the state and county highway programs have not been robbed of funds that rightfully should go to them.

The programming of road improvements, therefore, is in a sense taken from the larger field of legislative bickering and becomes the primary responsibility of a few trained highway engineers. The construction and maintenance of highways is their job.

In these trying times of state deficits the people of Michigan are fortunate that highway funds are assured for highway improvements. And it is on the basis of this assurance that Commissioner Ziegler can promise action in correcting the condition of US-2-41 between Gladstone and Escanaba. He knows the funds will be available for the project.

Thurston For Local Control Of Schools

LOCAL control of schools is an issue that is discussed many times each year in every community of the state, says Lee M. Thurston, Michigan superintendent of public instruction. It is a subject discussed by all political parties. It is considered in all state educational legislation. It undoubtedly will be discussed in the current session of the legislature.

At a time when state support for local schools is being increased, it is natural that attention should be directed to the question of control. In public as in private affairs, it is generally the rule that power follows the purse. This rule has not hitherto been followed in Michigan's state-local school system. The state's contribution to its local schools has risen from $41,000,000 in 1941 to $161,000,000 in 1951. Nevertheless the Legislature has refrained during this 10-year period from diminishing local educational control. Michigan's school boards have as much power today in the administration of their schools as they had in 1941. This is a remarkable fact.

It is his belief that the American educational system, under strong local control, has made itself one of the best, if not the very best, school system in the world. Its vitality derives from its very close affiliation with the people who govern the schools through their own elected representatives. It is the most popular public institution we have. It would be easy to change its character by passing laws that would lessen the authority of the people and their school boards, and put greater power in the hands of the state authorities. But such a change would profoundly alter the character of our schools, and might impair their health and vigor. These perils should be very carefully weighed by the Legislature before such a step is taken. The assertion of greater state control over education, as has been demonstrated in other states and countries, would have far-reaching consequences.

The safer course is to press forward as we are doing in achieving better cooperative working relationships among citizens, their local school boards, state school officials, and colleges and universities.

Iran Can't Afford The Luxury Of Hostility

WHEN Britain named a new ambassador to Iran, the move generally was accepted as a gesture of conciliation toward the Mossadegh government. It appeared the British were ready to start afresh, to lay the ground for renewed negotiations.

But Premier Mossadegh declined to accept the new ambassador. Coming on the heels of his sharp order closing nine British consulates, his action can only be viewed as one of extreme, almost irrational hostility.

Just how this benefits an Iran which currently is producing little oil, has no market for a larger product and is financially on the rocks is not plainly evident.

Indeed, there is no consistent thread of concern for Iranian security and welfare running through Mossadegh's policies.

The only consistency is his apparently unshakable determination not to deal with the British unless they yield 100 per cent to his demands.

But stubborn inflexibility and blazing hatred for the British "interloper" are hardly enough to sustain a country in Iran's precarious position. How much longer can Mossadegh indulge his emotions without plunging his country into economic ruin?

HOUSE MOUSE

Every time I hear some fellow brag of how he rules his house, and who says he takes no orders from his ever-loving spouse, then I take his boastful story with a grain of salt or two, and I wonder just how much of what he has to say is true. For I've noticed such a husband though he loudly raves and rants, is but just a mouse around the house and never wears the pants.

He's a "Yes, my dear" and "No, my love" who does as he is told, and it's merely wishful thinking when he wanders from the fold, and declares he's lord around his home and leads a kingly life, while he pities any dope who knuckles under to his wife. But he merely is escaping his domestic circumstance, for around the house he's just a mouse who never wears the pants.

The Doctor Says . . .

Women Are the Stronger Sex, Contrary to the Traditions

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D. — Written for NEA Service

If you want to live long, you should be born a girl, and not a boy. Contrary to fiction and the views of some men, women are not the frail vessels which perhaps men would like to think they are.

Indeed, except for muscular development and a periodic handicap supplied by nature, women are really the rugged sex.

Women are more resistant to the fatal effects of most diseases than men are with the exception of conditions peculiar to the female sex.

Girls and women appear to be much more robust than boys and men. Most of them accept illness more philosophically and possibly this helps them to recover.

It is easy to understand that men are more exposed to accidents—at least this used to be the case before the days when so many women worked in industry.

It is not so easy to see why men should be so much more susceptible to certain types of heart diseases such as coronary thrombosis and other disorders involving the blood vessels.

Women can withstand cold better than men. The reason for this is at least partly because they have a thin layer of fat under the skin which helps to insulate them. When in swimming and at formal parties, the difference is usually obvious.

Almost every doctor will agree that on the average, women stand pain better than men do. This may not have any relation to their resistance to disease, and is probably just a sign of their adaptability to the role of child-bearing.

For every one hundred girls born into this world, there are about one hundred and three boys. From time of birth on, however, boys die off at a more rapid rate than their sisters.

BECOMES WOMAN'S WORLD

By the time the later years of life are reached, from seventy-five onward, there are more than twice as many women living as there are men.

The change in the proportion between the sexes is brought about gradually because more men than women die at almost every age. With an ageing population and periodic wars taking off even more men, the time is not far distant, if it has not already arrived when women will outnumber men throughout most of the country.

Even now they are said to own more property. This will be a new experience for a country which always before in its history has had an excess of men.

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—One reason for the extra-tight secrecy during the House judiciary committee's debate on probing the Justice Department was that the personal doctor of President Truman, Maj. Gen. Wallace Graham, was involved.

Also, Attorney General Howard McGrath used just about every lobbying trick in the bag to prevent the probe, and certain congressmen didn't want it known how abruptly they reversed themselves because of administration pressure. Among these was Chairman Emmanuel Celler of New York, who had just notified the President that he was going to do what he did not do—investigate.

The dynamite regarding Truman's personal physician was tossed into the closed-door committee discussion by Congressman Kenneth Keating of New York, who told how General Graham had tried to keep the notorious Rumanian, Nicola Malaxa, in the U. S. A.

Keating has alleged that Malaxa has sent jewelry to Ana Pauker, Communist premier of Rumania, has collaborated both with the Nazis and the Communists, and has had so much drag with Moscow that he is the only Rumanian businessman able to get $2,000,000 out of that country. A CIO report found in Judy Coplon's purse also showed that Malaxa made Field Marshal Goering's brother a partner in his business before the war.

Nevertheless, the Justice Department gave Malaxa a favorable report, putting him in a preferred position to become a permanent resident of the United States.

This recommendation, Congressman Keating told the judiciary committee, was based partly on an affidavit from Maj. Gen. Wallace Graham "building him up as a fine fellow."

"Apparently this man (Malaxa) reaches into high places," the New York Republican told his astonished colleagues. "I want to find out how high—and who his sponsors are besides Dr. Graham. I also want to find out who in the immigration service wrote that report clearing Malaxa."

Note—Once before, Dr. Graham faced congressional charges, and admitted speculating on the commodity market. Unreproved, he was later promoted by the President from brigadier general to major general. On one occasion, Malaxa came all the way from New York to Washington to get a physical checkup by General Graham.

HOT WIRE-PULLING

About ten days before the hot debate inside the judiciary committee, its chairman, Manny Celler of Brooklyn, went down to the White House and warned the President that he was going to investigate the Justice Department.

He told Mr. Truman that he was under great pressure to make the probe and, as a matter of courtesy, wanted the White House to know he was proceeding. The President, however, urged him to hold off, even promised to remove Attorney General McGrath.

"I'm going to clean this thing up," the President said, and told Cellar how he was appointing McGrath as ambassador to Spain, replacing him with Judge Justin Miller. The President talked at some length about what an able man Miller is and how everything would be cleaned up, thus making Celler's investigation unnecessary.

Thereafter, powerful influences went to bat for the attorney general, including his law partner, Senator Green of Rhode Island, and Cardinal Spellman of New York. Thereafter, also, the President reversed himself.

But, despite the fact that no change has been made in the Justice Department, Celler did exactly the opposite of what he told the White House. He pulled all sorts of wires to block a Justice department probe by his committee, even postponing the first vote for five days to give the administration time to high-pressure all Democratic members.

BRASS HAT WITNESSES

So when brass hats have been attending congressional hearings—some as mere messenger boys—that Secretary of Defense Lovett has cracked down on them.

What made him do so was when Sen. Lyndon Johnson, Texas Democrat, stopped a secret hearing on tank production to count the number of military assistants backstopping the witness. He counted a total of 14 military personnel, actually outnumbering the Senators and their staff. One colonel had the sole job of flipping over pages, while another colonel pointed at charts and statistics to illustrate what the witness was saying.

This outraged Johnson who had already complained to the Pentagon about having "more chiefs than Indians." As a result of Johnson's wrath, the secretary of defense hastily wrote a private memo to the secretaries of the Army, Navy, and Air Force.

"I am convinced," wrote Lovett, "that much can be done to reduce the number of officers attending hearings. . . It appears that a general or flag officer should attend a hearing only when he is to be a principal witness on matter of policy or when the legislation is of major importance. Attendance of high ranking officers as observers or as witnesses on unimportant legislation should be held to a minimum."

Tunnel Under Niagara Will Build World's 2nd Largest Power Source

By JAMES MONTAGNES

NEA Special Correspondent

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. — (NEA) — Deep under the honeymoon city of Niagara Falls, workmen are blasting through rock and sand to build a tunnel that will be as high as a four-story building.

The tnnnel will bring water from above Niagara Falls to a point far below on the Niagara River, and by 1954 it is expected to add 700,000 more horsepower of electricity for the killowatt-hungry industries of southern Ontario.

The project on the Canadian side of the border is going ahead under a U. S. - Canadian agreement to expand power facilities a the Falls. Development on the U. S. side is still in the argument stage among federal and state power authorities and private power companies.

Ontario's $182,000,000 project which includes new generating stations being built into the solid rock wall of the river, required an entire new townsite for the 5000 men on the job. Many of these are hard - rock miners brought down from the gold mines of northern Ontario for the tough blasting job.

* * *

The development will take water as it rushes toward the brink of the Falls and drop it through a 45-foot-diameter tunnel to 250 feet below the river surface. Then, for 5½ miles, the water will run gradually uphill again to an open canal which will carry it two miles to the seven penstocks of the new generating station.

The new 700,000 horsepower will be added to the 525,000 horsepower already generated on the Canadian side of the Falls.

Under the International treaty the scenic value of the famous falls will not be harmed. The flow of the water over the Falls will be tapped in greatest quantity in the Fall and Winter months when tourist activity is at a minimum and when power needs are highest.

POWER PENSTOCKS: This is part of the rock-blasting being done on the shore of the Niagara River (seen faintly at left) for the seven penstocks that will bring water from Niagara Falls to a new generating station to create 700,000 horsepower.

The tunneling job under the city of 40,000 people is being done from five shafts sunk from the surface at an angle. These shafts are about 50 feet in diameter and are being built off-center so they can be used later for building a second tunnel for the final power development on the Canadian side in about 1960.

* * *

The vast industrial development in southern Ontario since the end of the war has been a major factor in the need of more power. There are many new factories in the area immediately north of Lakes Erie and Ontario today, and more factories for defense industries are now being built by U.S., Canadian, British and European capital.

The population has been increased by about half by the 500,000 immigrants who have come to Canada since 1945. For the Niagara Falls power development alone, Ontario has imported over a thousand skilled workmen from Great Britain, as well as unskilled labor from western Europe.

When completed in another ten years, the Canadian side of Niagara Falls alone will be the second largest power development in the world, next to Grand Coulee, Washington. With the power to be developed on the American side of the Falls, Niagara will be the biggest power source anywhere.

Issuance of the southpaw checkbooks is just another step in the bankers' already successful campaign to teach the public to "pay by check." The program was slow in starting, but for the last 30 years it has progressed so rapidly that now 90 per cent of all trade transactions are settled by written check.

Some six billion checks—most of them tastefully tinted in pastel colors—are printed annually to supply the need for the handy substitute for cash.

Bank checks or cheques, as the British write the word, are an old story, says the National Geographic Society. They were used by ancient Romans, and the even more ancient Assyrians were writing checks on mud tablets as far back as the 9th century D. C.

Britain's King Edward I wrote a check for 40 pounds payable to a Florence merchant 670 years ago. Medieval Venice used the check system but both payer and payee were required to appear in person at the bank for the transfer of funds.

Oldest Checks

The oldest checks in the United States are now in the Chase National Bank collection. They were signed by a Dutch merchant and dated March and September 1664, the year New Amsterdam became New York.

Checks came into more general use in the United States in the latter part of the 19th century. Abraham Lincoln was one of the first to recognize their convenience in making small payments. He bought a pair of glasses with a check for $2.50. His checks for charity were descriptive—such as one drawn to "man with one leg" or "Mr. Johns—the sick man," to aid identification.

While the United States cannot claim the oldest checks, the fattest checks are cashed in this country. One for $7,500,000,000 tops them all. It transferred government funds from one account to another to balance the U. S. Treasury's books at the end of the 1948 fiscal year.

A check in the small change class, by comparison, was one drawn for $1,000,000—a United Nations payment on a $65,000,000 loan from the United States.

Tax Check: $0.00

Small checks are rare but legal in most places. In England the Mayor of Southampton once received a check for one penny for overpayment on a railway ticket. A business man out of change at a London tube station wrote a check for twopence—his fare home.

The smallest check was received by the U. S. Collector of Internal Revenue. It was for $0.00, from a taxpayer who managed to break even.

Checks properly worded can be written on anything. They have been drawn on a postage stamp, a cookie, an egg, on cigaret paper and even written with chalk on a black of wood. The most formidable was on sheet steel with the draft written in electric welding and the cancellation in machine gun bullet holes.

The Romans used asbestos as wicks for oil lamps.

Good Evening . . .

By CLINT DUNATHAN

THE VACATIONLAND—Last weekend we were in St. Ignace and among other sights visited the state highway department's new dock, located at what is described as "the old furnace site" on the east side of St. Ignace Point.

It was nearly 11 a. m. and into view came the state highway department's new icebreaker and auto ferry, "Vacationland," latest addition to the state ferry fleet.

The "Vacationland" is not a handsome vessel, but she does have plenty of power and strength for cracking channels through ice. She was placed in service at the Straits just two weeks before our visit there.

With reduced speed the big new ferry swung bow-first toward the dock.

* * *

CURRENT AND WIND—In the open channel of water, and with her speed cut, the ferry's stern started to drift to the south with the wind and current.

Instead of coming straight into the slip, she was now approaching at an angle. Her bow propellers began revolving, pushing out a surge of water, in an effort to check her speed.

The bow of the vessel opened, big doors sliding to the sides, to reveal automobiles ready to disembark. Several persons stood on the steel deck, some of them passengers, some crew members.

* * *

HITTING THE DOCK—Approaching the slip at an angle, as she was, it appeared certain the "Vacationland" was going to smack the shorter dock on the south side—hard.

The dock corner showed the effects of two weeks of battering by the all-steel ferry. The timbers were splintered and broken, the concrete was cracked open.

With a jarring sideways motion the left side of the ferry near the bow struck the dock and bounced. The autos swayed on their wheels. The people standing on the deck were saved from falling only by quick foot-work.

Hitting the north side of the slip the ferry bounced again, this time not so violently. In a matter of a few seconds the passengers were disembarking, pedestrians coming off first.

Among them were Mr. and Mrs. Prentiss M. Brown of Detroit and St. Ignace. Brown is a former congressman and U. S. senator, is now chairman of the board of the Detroit Edison Company, and is one of the members of the Mackinac Bridge Authority.

We doubt very much that the state's latest addition to Straits transportation will kill his enthusiasm for a bridge—the only practical solution to one of the worst traffic bottlenecks in the nation.

* * *

TRUE OR FALSE—Experienced lake captains are reported to have warned the "Vacationland" designers that the ferry's pilot house was located too far back of the bow.

But no changes were made in the design and the highway department recently said there was nothing wrong with the location of the pilot house. The critics, however, declare the skipper and wheelsman are unable to see the dock as they approach it.

We don't know about that. But we do know the "Vacationland" does hit—and hard.

* * *

HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT DENIAL—The highway department also denied the wind and current at the new dock location caused trouble in docking.

Here again we are in no position to question their statement. But we can report that oldtime mariners at the Straits affirm that strong currents sweep the dock location and do cause trouble. From personal observation on the day of our visit, indicated by the drift of the ferry and the open channel in the ice, we would say the oldtimers are right.

If wind and current should prove troublesome it will place the dock somewhat in the category of the unused causeway on the south side of St. Ignace Point—an impractical investment of the people's money according to some engineering authorities.

Power With Words

CANDIED SWEET POTATOES

Do you like candied sweet potatoes? But whether you do or don't, how do you speak of this dish? "CAN-deed" or "CAN-did?" And in reading the line, "He was pitted against those whom he pitied," is there any difference in your pronunciation of "pitted" and "pitied?"

If you wish to start a table discussion, just ask those questions. The list of examples could be greatly extended, such as the sound of the last syllable in words ending in "y," or the plural or possessive of such words—baby, babies; money, moneys; Macy's, and Tracy's. Perhaps best for these discussions are such words as city, cities; pity, pities and pitied; rigidity, timidity, and various other words ending in "y" and containing the so-called "short i."

In other words, not only by their pronunciations of "marry," "Mary," "grass," "dance," "car" and the like can one distinguish the speech of one part of our country from that of another, but also in the sound of 'y" in such words as those given above. In the New England states and the northern tier of states generally, "candied," pitied," "babies," "Macy's," "cities," and so on are commonly sounded very much like "CAN-deed," 'PIT-eed," "BAY-beez," "MAY-seez," and so on. That is, the final vowel closely approaches the sound of "double ee." But in the South and generally in the rest of the country these words are pronounced "CAN-did," "PIT-id," "BAY-biz," "MAY-siz," and "SIT-iz."

Over the broader expanse of our country, that is to say, the latter or 'short i" pronunciation of these words is used. Accordingly, these are the ones shown in most of our dictionaries, though some recent ones indicate that it is a matter of regional variation. But whenever the occasion arises, the more common pronunciation will be used in this column.

Our reply to the scientist who said that the term for the common cold is too small to be seen by the miscroscope: "Don't bacilli!"

Revenue Agent Sent To Prison

BOSTON— (AP) —Denis W. Delaney, ousted collector of internal revenue for Massachusetts, was sentenced today to two years' imprisonment and fined $10,500 on convictions of receiving $7,500 in bribes and falsifying that $180,000 in tax liens had been satisfied.

Federal Judge Charles E. Wyzanski Jr., sentenced Delaney to two years in prison on each of three counts in an indictment which charged he received $7,500 to influence tax decisions. The court ordered that the terms be served concurrently.

He also fined Delaney $2,500 on each count—the amounts he was accused of soliciting and receiving.

The sentence also included disqualification of Delaney to "hold any position of honor and profit" in the United States government.

Judge Wyzanski said he had no alternative but to pronounce sentence on a second indictment under which delaney was convicted in three counts of falsifying tax liens, although he said to Delaney:

"In my view it is quite different and shows you received no advantage of any kind for signing these false certificates or that the government was damaged in any way."

He went on to fine Delaney the minimum of $1,000 on each of these three counts and to sentence him to six months on each count, the sentences to be served concurrently with the other sentences.

He then suspended the six months' sentences.

Delaney won in effect, a stay of sentence—pending appeals—when the judge allowed continuation of $2,500 bail under which he has been at liberty.

Proposal For June Primary Approved In Lansing Caucus

LANSING — (AP)—A Senate Republican caucus today approved a proposal to move the state primary election from September to June.

This virtually assures Senate passage of the measure since Republicans control the chamber. The measure would set the primary on the second Tuesday in June. Backers contend it will give candidates more time to campaign before the November general election.

At the same time Senate Republicans refused to approve a proposal that Michigan adopt the Massachusetts ballot under which it is impossible to vote a straight ballot.

Two other election reform proposals before the Senate were not considered by the caucus. They were (1) abolition of the secret primary and (2) requirement that candidates who do not receive 35 per cent of the primary vote must be nominated by party conventions.

Man Refuses To Pay 5-Cent Toll; Jumps To Death In Ohio Flood

HUNTINGTON, W. Va — (AP) — A unidentified man, who refused to pay a five-cent bridge toll, apparently jumped to his death into the swollen Ohio River.

Azel Ramey, a toll taker on the Huntington-Chesapeake, O., span, said the man, about 40 to 45 years old, declined to pay his nickel for walking across the bridge toward Chesapeake. Ramey called after the man several times, threatening to call the police.

"They won't get me anyway," Ramey quoted the man.

When two Huntington patrolmen, responding to the toll taker's call, approached the man near the middle of the bridge, he climbed over the railing and jumped.

Jack Hancock, another bridge employe, hurried out with a flashlight and inspected the bridge's beams—hoping the man had caught on the steelwork below the walkway. But there was no sign of him.

The river was too swift for the fire department rescue squad to put out a boat.

Kefauver Given Ruark's TV-Eye

By ROBERT C. RUARK

NEW YORK—The coonskin-cap kid, who almost might be called the Hopalong Cassidy of the Senate, is going to give all us dial-twiddlers an acute and needful index to the state of the nation's political concupiscence this year. Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee has just offered up his fair white frame as guinea pig in a vital experiment affecting national wellbeing. He is going to run for president of the United States on the strength of a hefty television rating.

The nation's pulse-feelers have been fretting about this TV medium as a political weapon all along. But as in most complicated scientific experiments, we have had no subject who qualified as the perfect experimental control. Estes Kefauver is it. His qualifications can be said to rest almost entirely on public acceptance as crime-buster, the scourge of the underworld. His fame twines rounds the coaxial cables as ivy to a tree.

Entertainment History

Understand we do not knock the Senator's legislative behavior since he whipped the Crump machine in Tennessee and came to Washington to make law. His committees were neat but not gaudy, and it was not until he joined the Vigilantes and took his act on the road that his name crept into the kitchens of the country. The Kefauver crime commission road show got heavy billing, and he hit the jackpot when the American Broadcasting Co., signed up the hearings for the TV audience.

You may recall that Kefauver and Rudolph Halley and Senator Tobey and Frank Costello and Virginia Hill made some sort of entertainment history. On Virginia alone, the sponsors got their dough back. Overnight Kefauver was as famous, say, as the good captain of the Flying Enterprise, Donald Duck, or any other top-drawer celebrity. As a TV star he had competed successfully with the best in puppets, Berle and Hoppy.

Press Came First

At first Kefauver was a child of the front pages, and then he was a television standout, and finally he was a magazine writer and a true celebrity as a crime buster and a thug chaser. He had the face and voice for it, too—a big, calm, faintly craggy man, with an overdoes of dignity and an icy poise. Yet there is some discernible kindness in Kefauver, too, and considerable humor. As a performer he is classic, as a shrewed publicity grabber, great. Other men have become president on less.

Kefauver has seen his sidekick, Rudy Halley, walk into the vice-mayoralty of New York City solely on a television reputation and his association with Kefauver's crime commission. He came in, so to speak, on his press notices, and it will be intriguing to see if Kefauver can rassle up a nomination on a background that has been largely thespian so far as the voters know him.

I have an odd hunch that if Harry Truman decides not to run, the long Tennessee boy in the coonskin cap stands a better-than-fair chance to qualify for the Democratic candidacy. In presence, background and reputation, he already has considerable more muscle than Truman had when they made a vice-president out of him. And then, of course, the TV . . .

It is going to be a long, tough summer and spring and fall, on the airlanes and the TV screens. There is nothing to say that a Lincolnesque politician with elegant TV presence can't make it over a stiff-necked opponent with the personality of a clam to obscure his sterling virtues. (This is a hypothetical opponent. I know of few candidates whose sterling virtues would obscure their personalities, good or bad.)

We mustn't forget that FDR was an accomplished actor before he was anything. So was Huey Long, There was a lot of ham in old TR, if I read my history right, and Lincoln seemed to have a nice way with a phrase. But none of them had the miracle of television to work with as a weapon. Anybody who saw the Kefauver shows or Gen. MacArthur's "Old Soldier" speech in Washington knows what I mean.

Television literally birthed Kefauver as a large public figure. Be very interesting to see if it can wean him, and raise him up to a shot at the country's top job. Funnier things have happened, and I'm not betting no.

Potato Trend Toward Higher Yield Per Acre

By M. E. CRAVENS
Michigan State College

The past decade has brought important changes in Michigan's potato industry. In 1949, 50,000 growers produced 14.2 million bushels of potatoes on 85 thousand acres. In 1939, 120,000 growers produced 20.4 million bushels on 218 thousand acres.

Thus, between 1939 and 1949, the number of growers and acreage harvested decreased by about 60 per cent while potato production decreased only 30 per cent.

In 1949 a fifth of the growers produced 88 per cent of the potatoes. In 1939 the same proportion of the growers produced only 69 per cent of the potatoes. The importance of the large growers is further emphasized by the fact that in 1949 four per cent of the growers produced 60 per cent of the potatoes while 87 per cent of the growers produced less than 16 per cent.

Michigan potato yields increased from 94 to 166 bushels from 1939 to 1949.

Larger Growers' Advantages

Larger growers increased per acre yields far more than smaller growers. Between 1939 and 1949 yields of growers with less than 3 acres increased from 80 to 105 bushels or 25 bushels per acre) while those for growers of 3 acres or more increased from 101 to 187 bushels (or 86 bushels per acre).

From the above data it is evident that the practices which make for higher potato yields have been applied to a better advantage by the larger growers.

These include use of green manure and heavier fertilizer application, use of adequate quantity of high quality seed, proper spraying and cultivating. The expensive equipment which makes it possible to do the best job usually is not economically adapted to small acreage. Irrigation is also a practice not well adapted to the small producer.

Undoubtedly the trend toward fewer and larger growers will continue.

A Warning

It will become increasingly necessary for the potato grower who is raising a large acreage to obtain high yields if he is to show a profit. At the same time it will become increasingly difficult for large-acreage growers who do not get high yields to stay in potato production. High yields of marketable potatoes per acre and an acreage of sufficient size for economical production are the main keys to success in potato production today.

In addition it may be necessary to have sufficient financial reserves and courage to weather one or more years of unfavorable prices.

Expanding Florida Land Of Opportunity

By HAL BOYLE

SOMEWHERE IN FLORIDA—(AP)—Some vacation notes scribbled on an old palm leaf:

Florida is expanding so fast that most cities now have caught up with the sidewalks built far out into the palmetto thickets 25 years ago.

HAL BOYLE

New businesses have been started here at a higher rate than anywhere else in the nation. Many of the new pioneers are young veterans, stationed here during the war, who fell in love with the climate and came back to launch their civilian careers. Their home-building and industry-creating activities have given a fresh impetus to "The Peninsula State."

Florida is a land of reward now for almost any fresh talent. For example, anyone who likes to turn his hand to new jobs might find a real opportunity in a recent newspaper ad offering $75 a week for an alligator wrestler.

When I remarked the pay didn't seem too attractive, an oldtimer remarked:

"Well, the hours are short—and it's more than the alligators get."

Beef Ranches Grow

Draining swamps and tourists are standard sources of wealth. Great herds of cattle — Florida now raises more beef than any state east of the Mississippi—graze on acres where only rattlesnakes and cockleburrs thrived a generation ago.

The tourists graze in shiny pastel million-dollar beachfront hotels that still pop up like giant jack-in-the-boxes.

The citrus groves range in wider and wider waves of living green. Airplane passengers flying over the groves when they are in bloom say they can smell their fragrance.

The mushrooming citrus crops, speeded by the national popularity of frozen breakfast juice, have created a new wealthy class.

In Orlando, which has a metropolitan area of about 100,000 people, a resident was asked how many citrus millionaires had retired there since the war.

"About 50," he replied.

That ain't hay they squeeze out of oranges—it's raw gold.

No Passing Boom

The recent wave of Florida bombings, anti-racial in origin, has really angered and alarmed the citizenry. They feel it has hurt the area.

"The state is swarming right now with FBI agents," said one newspaperman, "and we want the perpetrators caught and punished.

"Ninety-five per cent of our folks are fine, decent-minded people. The other five per cent are trash. And it is the trash that causes that kind of trouble. I suppose they do what they do because they feel they have to have somebody to look down on."

In the last 25 years Florida has become one of the most cosmopolitan states in the union. An odd fact: southerners settle in the northern part, northerners in the south.

The present growth is solid. Real estate dealers no longer hire jazz bands and serve free meals to lure customers.

Pets Lap Juices

Thousands of small homeowners, banking on a bright future, invest their savings by buying extra lots suitable as building sites. As one resident said, laughing:

"We sell a lot back and forth to each other, raising the price each time, until some newcomer comes along, buys it, and builds a house on it and takes it out of circulation. Then we buy a new lot farther out, and start the whole thing all over again."

It is a formula that has worked swell ever since the war. Anybody who stays more than two weeks in Florida without buying a piece of property is regarded as slow-witted—or broke.

The health-giving qualities of Florida products are recognized by the animals as well as the human population. Many pets develop a fondness for citrus juice, and lap it regularly each morning in order to get their vitamins.

One woman, explaining why her dog's teeth had been worn down to stubs, said:

"The poor thing wore them down gnawing through coconuts. He's simply crazy about coconut milk."

At the party were Judith and Connie Farley, Carole Hazen, Audrey and Eileen Anderson, Pamela Hardy of Gladstone, Jane LaVallee, Joyce Pellitier and Lorna Maynard.

Eugene Scott has returned to Manistique after spending two weeks with his daughter, Mrs. Harley LaBute of Kates Bay. Mr. Scott is fire towerman at Steuben during the summer months.

ADMITS KIDNAP HOAX—Mrs. Jada Z. Kader, 21, puffs nervously on a cigaret after leading Portland, Ore., police to a sump hole where they found the body of her three-year-old daughter, Sherrie Ellen. Mrs. Kader had reported three days earlier that her daughter was kidnaped. Police continued to question her as she told conflicting stories of how the child met death. (NEA Telephoto)

Accident Reveals One Extra Body

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia— (AP)—One man was killed in a traffic accident, but when the police arrived they found two bodies.

One man was killed when the jeep he was driving rammed into the rear of a truck. Police then found the body of an army lieutenant in the truck. He had been injured fatally by a hit-and-run driver a few days previous and the truck was carrying his body from a hospital to his home for burial.

105TH BIRTHDAY

TRENTON, Ont.— (AP)— Mrs. Jane Mitchell quietly celebrated her 105th birthday recently at the home of her son. Still mentally alert, she loves to relate tales of the pioneering days. She has three sons, 14 grandchildren and several great-grandchildren.

Lunch was served by the hostess, Mrs. George Decremer and Mrs. Joseph Drust. The next meeting will be a Valentine party held Feb. 14. Pot luck lunch will be served and valentines will be exchanged. The topic for discussion will be "Furniture Arrangement".

Thieves Strip Model Down To Bathing Suit

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—When a woman says "I haven't a thing to wear" she's usually stretching the truth a bit.

But model June Bright wasn't kidding when she told that to police yesterday.

Miss Bright, 25 wife of disc jockey Gene Norman, showed up at the station in a brief, black satin bathing suit and told this story:

She was moving to a new home and wore only the bathing suit while packing in 76-degree weather. She put her entire wardrobe, $4,000 worth, in her car. Then she donned a coat, drove with friends to a cafe and went in to eat. When she came out the wardrobe was gone.

Officers were sympathetic, but were inclined to agree with a detective who remarked of the shapely blonde:

"She doesn't need anything but a bathing suit."

O-Jib-Wa Bitters Brought Relief After 15 Years of Painful Suffering

The genuine results that is wanted by every rheumatism and arthritis sufferer can be had with O-JIB-WA BITTERS. Mr. Glenn W. Forbes, 1411 Deyo Street, Jackson, Michigan, suffered 15 long years with rheumatism, arthritis and lumbago, and just eight weeks after he started taking O-JIB-WA, he was completely better. What O-JIB-WA BITTERS has done for others, it can do for you.

"The pains and stiffness of arthritis and lumbago tortured me for 15 long years. The pain in my spine was so bad that I couldn't turn over, and I had to painfully force myself out of bed. I couldn't even bend over to tie my shoes, and often would miss work for days at a time. The pain in both arms was just as bad, and it was difficult to dress myself and to do any work at all. One day when I was very bad and remained home, I read an indorsement for O-JIB-WA BITTERS in the newspaper, and the user spoke so highly of it that I was very anxious to try it. I went right out and got a bottle and started taking it, and by the time I had used it for 20 days, the pains and stiffness began to leave, and in just eight weeks, every ache and pain in my body had left me. Frankly, it was amazing. Thanks to O-JIB-WA BITTERS I am now able to work full time again, and would advise anyone suffering with rheumatism or arthritis to try this wonderful medicine." O-JIB-WA BITTERS is available in three economical sizes at all leading drug stores in Michigan and especially recommended by:

Here's A Tasty Valentine

FROTHY AND DELECTABLE, this True-Love heart combines meringue, ice cream, and tinted coconut to your heart's desire.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

Here's a tasty, delicate dessert to serve at dinner on St. Valentine's Day. It's appealing to the eye as well as the palate.

True-Love Heart
(Makes 8 servings)

Four egg whites, dash of salt, 1 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon vinegar, 1 teaspoon vanilla, ice cream balls, coconut, vegetable coloring.

Beat egg whites and salt until foamy throughout. Add sugar, 2 tablespoons at a time, beating after each addition until sugar is blended. Then continue beating until mixture will stand in stiff peaks. Add vinegar and vanilla and beat well. (Entire beating process takes about 10 minutes).

Using a spoon or pastry tube, shape mixture in a heart on unglazed paper on baking sheet. With a spoon, make a depression in center of meringue. Bake in slow oven (300 degrees F.) 30 to 35 minutes. Cool and remove from paper.

To serve, fill center with ice cream balls rolled in tinted coconut .

Tinted Cocoanut

Sprinkle shredded coconut on a sheet of white paper, dilute a tiny bit of vegetable coloring in a small amount of water, sprinkle over coconut, then rub evenly through coconut. More or less coloring may be used to obtain degree of color desired.

Or you may place cocoanut in a glass jar. (Do not fill jar more than ½ full). Dilute a small amount of food coloring and sprinkle over cocoanut. Cover jar and shake vigorously until coloring is evenly distributed and desired shade is obtained.

Rainbow-Tinted Coconut

Divide coconut into three parts. Tint each part a delicate color—pink, green and yellow may be used. Toss together until colors are blended.

Be Proud Of Your Height

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

How wonderful it is to be tall! You can face crowds without flinching, win a job where inches are an asset, and find a husband who likes to talk to a woman on his own level.

However, as Peg Newton, six-foot authority on the subject, would say, "a tall girl must steer a careful course, remembering that she will always be more conspicuous than women of average height.

"She must develop poise and efficiency. Cuteness and sloppiness are not for her."

If you've never taken advantage of your height, here are a few suggestions you might like to try.

Concerning your clothes, choose fabrics of good quality, because the sweep of your movements may be hard on your wardrobe. Tweeds, plaids and large patterned prints are perfect for you.

Leave the tiny dots and checks for your smaller sisters. Look for fullness and accentuated draping. Buy skirts that feature pleats, gathers and gores.

Be as dramatic as you like in your accessories. Long gloves, big purses, fans, scarves and flowered handkerchiefs are all acceptable.

Keep away from clutter. Wear one big clip or one big choker, but don't combine them. You can be spirited about your hats, too. Your height allows you opportunities you'd never have if you were short.

Stand up to your full height. You can be proud of your appearance, once you plan to take advantage of it.

Sliced dates, cooked with a little sugar, water, lemon juice and a dash of salt, make a delicious filling for rolled oatmeal cookies. Or use the date filling to layer between chocolate cake.

Jacques Duclos Issues His Ukase Against American Red Deviationism, and the Party Ditches Earl Browder

IX

The Party Swerves Sharply Left

In the spring of 1945, a letter written in the name of the French Communist leader, Jacques Duclos, exploded in the faces of the party leadership in the United States, and shook the ranks almost as violently as the infamous 1941 somersault to support the war. The Duclos affair was a full-scale internal revolt, although it was carefully screened from the public gaze.

It squelched Earl Browder's deviation and ended his hope of "American exceptionalism."

It rudely purged any illusions of future collaboration with capitalism.

It swerved the Communist party sharply to the left and pushed the nation closer to the ensuing Communist crisis.

In my case, it moved me in from the perimeter toward the epicenter of conspiracy where I was in a better position to keep track of events for the F.B.I.

The Communist atmosphere in the fall and winter of 1944-'45 was charged with advance warnings of the Duclos storm. The tide of war, both in Europe and the Pacific, had turned.

Once again it was within the Communist youth organizations, with which I, as a party "floater," was most intimately connected, that the signal flags first went up. Orders from above directed a tightening of policies and discipline within the ranks of American Youth for Democracy, of which I was the state treasurer. After reaching a peak of more than 1,500 dues-paying members in the Boston area, A. Y. D. rapidly lost ground on its win-the-war program.

Special Meeting

A special meeting was called at the apartment of Dave and Barbara Bennett to start a new membership drive for the youth group.

It was also time to screen the A. Y. D. membership for possible recruits for the regular Communist party. The word came down to open a "leadership training course" for hand-picked youngsters who might be good prospects. A national party functionary, Marcella Sloane, was sent to Boston to direct the training personally.

Classes were held at the big A. Y. D. auditorium on Huntington Avenue. They followed the pattern of my own pre-induction schooling in 1942. Marxism was cleverly and covertly woven into a study fabric made up of the most acute post-war issues, many of which were to be found even in the Republican and Democratic platforms. Among them were fair employment practices legislation. Federal aid to education, support of the Dumbarton Oaks agreement, measures to insure post - war jobs, and any issue which might appeal to a progressive minded young person.

There was no indoctrination in evolution, only the installation of ideas which would lead up to it, the first transplantation of the seeds of class strife, the theme that every social ill has its roots in Capitalism.

Some of the sixty-five carefully selected A. Y. D. fledgings dropped out midway in Marcella Sloane's course, but most of them went on later to a post-graduate course by the Samuel Adams School for Social Studies, the education center in Boston which was sponsored and supported by the Communists even while the party denied it.

Once again, the schooling consistently stopped short of revolution; but whereas in their first indoctrination classes, the social evils of capitalist democracy were infused, now the discussions led to the absolute necessity of making sharp changes in the social, economic and governmental system.

Among the instructors for the Sam Adams course was the school's treasurer, Harry Winner, a Malden, Mass. businessman and executive with the Converse Rubber Company for many years, a man whose talents as a teacher were widely appreciated by the party, even if they were overlooked by his business associates.

I was assigned by district headquarters to the task of infiltrating a liberal group known as the Massachusetts Political Action Committee, to survey the organization and determine whether the P.A.C. could be taken over and used as a political front by the party. I reported that I thought the committee, composed of true liberals, was ill-suited to Communist party purposes, and that it might be better to establish a similar group of our own. Many others agreed with me. Thus Earl Browder's flabby Communist Political Association, which had shunned devisive politics during the war years, laid the groundwork for the Progressive party and direct engagement once more in the political arena.

Working with Don Bollen, the A.Y.D. State Chairman; Bob McCarthy, National Board Member of A.Y.D.; Barbara Bennett, who replaced Alice Gordon as District Leader of Communist Youth Work; Beverly Franklin, who had special skill in raising A.Y.D. funds from the society ladies of Boston, and others, I drew up a plan for a "Youth On Parade" dinner, ostensibly to pay homage to the youth of Boston for their sacrifices both at home and on the field of battle.

We drew up a list of carefully selected young people to be the guests of honor and to receive certificates of achievement—a returning serviceman, a war worker, a nurse's aid, a canteen worker, an artist, a musician, a youth leader. We corralled Dr. Hugh Cabot, a frequent sponsor of and contributor to our causes, and a man whose name was synonymous with Boston, to officiate at the ceremonies. Professor F. O. Matthiessen of Harvard was to be the chairman of the evening.

I made the final arrangements for the dinner to be held on the evening of March 19 at the Hotel Vendome in Boston. I was assigned to write the letter soliciting the usual "sponsors" for the affair. After receiving the approval of Communist party headquarters, the letter was signed by Prof. Matthiessen.

Those invited to attend—and to contribute to A.Y.D.—were carefully screened. Tables were sold to civic organizations and trade unions for $50 to $100.

Beautiful Guest

One of the guests of honor was Mrs. Harold A. Fletcher jr., Martha, as she was known to hundreds of Boston young people for her youth work in the Unitarian Church. Martha was tall with beautiful classic features and a long brunette mane. She had a bright mind, a warm personality, and self-assurance that was reflected in a modulated but vibrant voice.

She was the hit of the evening —and likewise the "star" of the motion picture made of the entire affair, for the picture files of the F.B.I.

The Duclos letter was published in "Cahiers du Communisme," the theoretical organ of the Communist party of France. Long winded and dull, replete with dialectical gymnastics, the letter was actually a directive from the international Communist movement, ordering the party of the United States to put its house in order. It was understood to have the backing of the Kremlin, and it was accepted as law.

Few people outside the party plowed through Duclo's article, but it was widely circulated in the party as required reading. The letter pounced on the hapless Browder for dissolving the party and creating the Communist Political Association. Duclos called for the rejection of collaboration, for the burial of the Communist Political Association, and the restoration of a powerful and militantly Marxist Communist party in the United States.

The government, through the F.B.I., watched the trend of the party with renewed interest. There was a flurry of exchanges between me and the Bureau, and the questions put to me by them were much more probing than those asked by the man in the street. It was obvious that the party was preparing a big shift to the left. The question, Harold Leary wanted to know, was how far to the left would it go. I tried in vain to find out.

One of my first tasks in connection with the castle revolt was to serve as courier and emissary between the district headquarters and the Malden Branch of the party.

"Go down to the Progressive Bookshop at 8 Beach Street," I was ordered by Dave Bennett, the State Secretary, "and pick up some material there."

Propaganda Debut

So I made my debut at the public propaganda headquarters of the Communist party in Boston. The bookshop was a few doors down from Washington Street. I was surprised to find my old Wakefield cell comrade, Frank Collier, in charge. He was as morose as I had remembered him, and permitted himself no demonstration at seeing me again. The bookshop held shelves of Marxist-Leninist classics, current and back copies of Communist magazines, racks of the daily and the Sunday "Worker." Some books, such as the old reliable "History of the C.P.S.U. (B.)" were sold to reliable customers.

Collier packed up a bundle of pamphlets and circulars. "These go to 34 Holyoke Street, Malden," Frank told me. Under the second floor apartment number given to me there was listed simply the name, "Mills"—my old friend, Alice Mills, now the leader of the Malden Branch. She was in charge of the activities of some 100 party members in neighborhood cells in Malden, Somerville, Everett, Melrose, Wakefield and Stoneham. These cells were composed of residents of these communities, mostly workers and housewives.

In the subsequent orientation meetings in Alice's bailiwick, we disseminated the new party line down to the membership in preparation for the district convention of the party scheduled for July.

The Malden branch was instructed to elect three delegates and three alternates to the convention. The windup saw me elected as one of the alternates on the six-man delegation, happily for the F.B.I., because if they had asked me to "crash" the convention, I could not have done so. It was the most carefully guarded and closely secretive convention ever held in the district.

Eisenhower Tops GOP, Pearson Poll Reveals

By DREW PEARSON

Final results of the Merry-Go-Round post-card poll on the Republican candidates are as follows: General Eisenhower 49 per cent; Senator Taft of Ohio 35.6 per cent; Governor Warren of California 7.5 per cent; and General MacArthur 6.9 per cent.

A total of some 200,000 votes was received from every state in the union, and significantly the ratio of voting remained almost constant throughout the poll. Taft's strength, for instance, fluctuated only between 37 and 35.5 per cent; Eisenhower's strength between 48.5 and 49.6 per cent.

There was also little variation between the MacArthur and Warren vote, despite the fact that during the poll, General MacArthur made it clear he was not a candidate.

Stassen announced his condidacy during the middle of the poll, but his votes did not pick up as a result, and remained so few that they were not recorded.

Strong In Midwest

Taft's strength, according to the Merry-Go-Round survey, is at its peak in the midwest, while Eisenhower's strength is greatest in New England, the South and Far West.

States where Taft leads are Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Idaho, Maryland, North and South Dakota, West Virginia, Wyoming and Kentucky.

One surprising aspect of the poll was that Taft, though trailing in most Southern States, ran strong in Kentucky with a 61.4 to 33.2 per cent over Eisenhower. This was greater strength than in Taft's home state, Ohio.

Also interesting was the fact that the Merry-Go-Round poll in New Hampshire gave Eisenhower a strength of 57.8 per cent against Taft's 29.5 per cent, which runs counter to the poll taken by the Manchester Union-Leader, which showed MacArthur first, Taft second, and Eisenhower a poor third. The Merry-Go-Round poll in New Hampshire gave MacArthur 11.4 per cent. New Hampshire will be the first state to stage a primary.

Report Final Results

Although Eisenhower leaders have not entered him in Wisconsin on the theory that Taft has the edge, the Merry-Go-Round poll showed Ike leading Taft in that state by 41 to 36.

The states where Eisenhower ran strongest were the extremes of the nation in size—Texas with a vote of 71 per cent and Rhode Island with a vote of 76 per cent.

Here are the final results of Taft and Eisenhower strength, state-by-state, in percentages:

Alabama—Eisenhower 60.8, Taft 24.8; Arizona—Eisenhower 40.6, Taft 47.1; Arkansas—Eisenhower 49.1, Taft 43.9; California—Eisenhower 47.1, Taft 24.2; Colorado—Eisenhower 62.9, Taft 22.8; Connecticut—Eisenhower 59.3, Taft 29.3; Delaware—Eisenhower 62.4, Taft 28.7; Florida—Eisenhower 48.5 Taft 40; Georgia—Eisenhower 54.3, Taft 16.3; Idaho—Eisenhower 39.3, Taft 42.3; Illinois—Eisenhower 45.5, Taft 47.8; Indiana—Eisenhower 40, Taft 51.4; Iowa—Eisenhower 49.2, Taft 41.9; Kansas—Eisenhower 50, Taft 40.1; Kentucky—Eisenhower 33.2, Taft 61.4; Louisiana—Eisenhower 72.5, Taft 19.7; Maine—Eisenhower 60.3, Taft 25.4.

Michigan For Ike

Maryland — Eisenhower 42.7, Taft 48.3; Massachusetts—Eisenhower 61.3, Taft 28.2; Michigan—Eisenhower 49.3, Taft 36.5; Minnesota—Eisenhower 50.2, Taft 38.8; Mississippi—Eisenhower 62.3, Taft 31.3; Missouri—Eisenhower 62.4, Taft 29.6; Montana—Eisenhower 44.2, Taft 41.5; Nebraska—Eisenhower 45.4, Taft 44.5; Nevada—Eisenhower 63.6, Taft 23.4; New Hampshire—Eisenhower 57.8, Taft 29.5; New Jersey — Eisenhower 53.9, Taft 34.7; New Mexico—Eisenhower 67.1, Taft 16.9; New York—Eisenhower 46.9, Taft 39.3; North Carolina—Eisenhower 66.2, Taft 25; North Dakota—Eisenhower 32, Taft 52.1; Ohio—Eisenhower 35, Taft 54.6.

Infant Mortality Rate On Decrease

ROME — (AP) — Italy's infant mortality rate is decreasing sharply.

From 11.52 per cent in 1941, the index dropped to 6.41 per cent in 1950. It continued its downward trend in 1951, the National Statistics office announced.

The reduction was credited largely to increased activity by the National Organization for Maternity and Infancy which assisted almost two million mothers in 1950 through 3,352,280 doctors' visits.

Estimate 800 Present For March Of Dimes Show Monday Night

Approximately 800 persons were estimated to be present at the second annual March of Dimes Benefit Show Monday night in the new high school gymnasium.

The show program, featured by a basketball game between two teams of yesterday's high school veterans, also included several novelty, song and dance acts. The show lasted for approximately three hours.

A financial report of the show and the "Mother of the Year" contest will be announced as soon as all income and expense figures are verified, it was reported yesterday by Mrs. A. W. Cockram, county March of Dimes campaign director. Preliminary estimates indicate the event was a substantial success financially.

A message of welcome by Dr. James H. Fyvie, mayor of Manistique, officially opened the program which besides the basketball game included music by the Manistique Municipal Band; presentation of the three winners of the "Mother of the Year" contest by William A. Corson, president of the Chamber of Commerce; solos by Miss Gretchen Shirck, Mrs. Fred MacGregor and J. Earl Cousineau; song and instrumental numbers by the Lunds, of Blaney Park; a square dance by 24 dancers from Germfask who had their own orchestra and caller; violin numbers by Floyd Sample, of Thompson; accordion solos by Janet Dixner, of Gulliver; a clown act by Fred D. Heltman; songs by the Schoolmasters Quartet; and cheer leading by a group of high school girls.

Particularly impressive were presentation of the colors by Manistique National Guardsmen and veterans of the Korean War, and a posed "living picture" of the March of Dimes poster.

Also effective was a message from Mrs. Clark Bashore whose son was a victim of polio two years ago. She introduced her son, who posed in the March of Dimes poster picture number, and said that it was donations to the polio campaign which made it possible for the boy to get prompt and effective medical help.

Other humorous items on the program included antics by three clowns and the various maneuvers and fines imposed by local officers garbed in southern Civil War uniforms.

Jackie Joy, who emceed the program, contributed substantially to the success of the show with his humorous comment and several comic acts.

Dinner is scheduled for 6:15, with William A. Corson, chamber president, presiding. Other members of the board are Frank Richards, E. E. Cookson, Gordon Denny, Fred H. Hahne, Fred D. Heltman, R. G. Hentschell, C. E. Leonard, Leonard Harbick, O. J. Schuster, James Broman, Arthur Thorp and J. Mauritz Carlson.

Army Sergent Quits After 5 000 Parades

FT. RILEY, Kas.—(AP)—Alex W. Clemny, who has marched in an estimated 5,000 parades, has retired.

Clemny is a 60-year-old army sergeant, a bandsman in the 10th Infantry Division. He's been beating the drums and blowing a bugle for the army for 32 years, seven months and 16 days. Clemny figures he's averaged three parades a week.

But he's retiring reluctantly.

"I like army life—to be a soldier, to wear a uniform," he commented. "It looks good to see a clean looking soldier walk down the street. Feels good to fight for your country."

And he added wistfully:

"I love parades."

Ask Light On Summer Island

Installation of a stationary flasher light on the northeast corner of Summer Island as a protection for winter fishing craft is being sought by the Garden Peninsula Lions Club, it is announced by Alex Weigandt, of Cooks, president.

Passage of a resolution and circulation of petitions on the proposal were approved at the last meeting of the club.

A flashing gas buoy on Point Detour reef is removed every year on Dec. 1 and is not put back in operation until May 1. This is a period when aproximately 15 fishing craft operate out of Fairport and Fayette, Weigandt said, and these commercial fishermen need the protection afforded by such a light.

Members of the Garden Club, he pointed out, feel that a new stationary light on Summer Island, several miles out in the lake from Fairport, is the only answer to the problem.

The Garden Lions also are asking the Delta County Road Commission to install several "Winding Road" signs on County Road 483 from Fayette to a point 500 feet from the Port Bar.

The club president said that this is a dangerous stretch of road on which several accidents already have occurred, including a fatal one several weeks ago in which a Garden Peninsula soldier lost his life.

CARD OF THANKS

It is with a feeling of sincere gratitude that we take this means of expressing our deep appreciation and thanks to our friends and neighbors for their kindness shown us at the time of the death of our beloved daughter and granddaughter, Ruth. We are very grateful to Rev. A. Barton Brown for his consoling words and other manifestations of sympathy, to those who served as pallbearers, to those who offered the use of their cars, those who sent flowers, and to all others who aided us in so many ways. Your kindness will always be held in grateful remembrance.

'Good Neighbor' Policy Translated To Action As First Paper Is Shipped

A "Good Neighbor" newsprint mill policy announced last fall by new owners of the Manistique Pulp and Paper Company was translated into action today with first shipment of publication tonnage to the South American market.

Several carloads were scheduled for shipment today to New York for transhipment by boat to South America, R. G. Hentschell, mill manager, reported.

Manufacture of publication tonnage for South American publishers started yesterday and will be conducted on a restricted scale until about July 1 when full production will be inaugurated.

Part of the mill's productive capacity must be devoted to Mead contractual obligations until the end of June, Hentschell said. "We expect to produce about 1,000 tons monthly for South America until July 1", he stated.

Production of publication paper for South America is a tangible expression of inter-continental cooperation, a policy long advocated by the owners of the Trenton Times Corp., which purchased the Manistique mill last fall from the Mead Corporation and took over control on Jan. 1.

Statement Issued

Only those South American countries which follow the democratic way of life will get Manistique paper, new mill owners announced following purchase of the plant.

Thomas L. Kerney, general manager of the Trenton Times firm, has issued the following statement on behalf of himself and the Kerney family:

"The Kerney family has had a great interest in South America for many years. My father, the late James Kerney, editor and publisher of our papers from 1901 until his death in 1934, always believed that there should be a closer relationship and better understanding between the peoples of this hemisphere. We who manage the Trenton Times Corporation—all members of the Kerney family—have the same ideals.

"Last year, when the greatest meeting to date of the South and North American editors and publishers was held in New York City, it was quite evident that something practical must be done about the very critical shortage of newsprint in South America—if freedom of the press is to continue in those countries. A greater supply of newsprint to South American publishers is absolutely essential.

Many Plans Discarded

"Numerous plans for obtaining additional newsprint for South America, including the re-allocation of the present world supply, have been discussed in detail at many meetings. Most of the proposals considered were hopelessly involved with the great obstacles of time and money.

"Now, with the help and cooperation of some of the South American publishers, the Trenton Times Corp. has been able to acquire a paper mill, originally built for the manufacture of newsprint, together with an organization experienced in making this type of paper.

"This is not the solution to the world shortage of newsprint but it will supply 25,000 tons each year to our good friends in South America — without taking one pound from any other publisher.

"We have tried to allocate the new supply widely and fairly. This will not cover all the needs and we regret that more of our good friends cannot be included. We feel, however, that it is a big step in the right direction of preserving the freedom of the press in South America".

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our darling baby, Mary A. Janice, who passed away nine years ago today, January 30, 1943.

You're our little angel, Mary Janice,
Up in Heaven, so happy and bright,
Where there is perfect joy and beauty,
In that everlasting light.

Oh!, how we miss you little darling,
Miss your sunny little smile,
And your sweet merry laughter,
Will be with us all the while.

In our home is a vacant place,
And we often speak of you,
And how happy we would be,
If you were with us, too.

You were a little ray of sunshine,
God loaned us for a short time,
But we look beyond earth's shadows
To our Heavenly meeting, baby mine

Sadly missed by parents, brother, sisters, grandfather and relatives.

Ethopia Has Many Tons Of Scrap Iron

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia—(AP)—Ethiopia could provide thousands of tons of scrap iron for American blast furnaces. Transportation is one of the difficulties in getting it out of the country.

Piles of rusting scrap litter many places in Addis Ababa and other areas in the country—debris from the 1941 fighting between the Italians and British.

In This Corner

With Ray Crandall

It seems to us that the "amateur" football player doesn't have a chance in the setup which exists in the professional grid sport these days . . . The National Football League recently held its annual "draft" session of senior college players . . . Where the rub comes in, though, is that the college player has no choice in the matter . . . He's drafted and that's the end of it . . . And as in baseball, he's bound by the reserve clause . . . But at least in baseball the young player has his first choice of club . . . Just doesn't seem right, does it?

* * * * *

On the surface, the grid draft gives the clubs which finished low in the standings the right to select first from among the available players . . . However, the moguls have got around that by trading in futures and it seems that the top teams finally wind up with the stars selected by the lower-division clubs anyway.

* * * * *

Golden Gloves action over the past weekend stirred up a lot of fight talk around town and we heard some interesting tales of good fighters, funny fighters and poor fighters . . . We were reminded of one of the most amusing incidents we've ever seen in the squared circle . . . It happened back in 1941 and one of the principals was Omer Crocker of Iron Mountain, one of the greatest college fighters ever to lace on a pair of gloves.

* * * * *

Crocker was a murderous puncher with either hand and was in the midst of a long string of knockouts, fighting for the University of Wisconsin . . . In the first round of a bout against a University of Idaho boy, Crocker had caught his opponent with a couple of jarring punches and moved inside for the kill . . . Referee Johnny Behr of Chicago saw the end coming and quickly stepped in to pull the boys apart and stop the uneven battle . . . Just at the instant the ref jerked the fighters apart, Crocker let fly with his short left hook and the blow landed flush on Behr's chin . . . The Chicago official went down for the count while thousands of spectators roared with pleasure . . . Nobody was seriously hurt, however, and Behr recovered in time to handle the rest of the bouts on the program.

Mark Second High In Hockey Scoring

At the approximate half-way mark in the Northern Michigan Hockey league season, Mark Olson, player-coach of the Escanaba Hawks, is second high scorer in the league with 14 goals and 15 assists for a 29-point total.

Olson is topped only by that scourge of Upper Michigan hockey circles, Tony Bukovich of the defending champion Portage Lake Pioneers, who has 17 goal and 18 assists for 35 points, six more than the Escanaban.

Ted Olson, Escanaba wing, is sixth with eight goals and 11 assists.

The top eight scorers were announced by President E. J. Schumacher. It is complete up to Saturday, January 26. The list is dominated by the Bukoviches and Olsons. There are three of each in the first eight.

Guy Poce, flashy young Escanaba wing, is still in the first 10 although he missed the last two weeks of play because of illness.

The leaders are:

	G	A	Pts.
T. Bukovich, Portage Lake	17	18	35
Mark Olson, Escanaba	14	15	29
C. Van Overloop, Marquette	17	7	24
John Vasseau, Marquette	11	10	21
Roy Olson, Marquette	6	14	20
Ted Olson, Escanaba	8	11	19
M. Bukovich, Portage Lake	7	12	19

Bruins Defeat Red Wings 3-1

BOSTON — (AP) — The Boston Bruins picked an opportune moment to score their first home victory of the season over the National Hockey League's high-flying Detroit Red Wings.

Boston defeated the league-leaders, 3-1, in the Boston Garden last night in the only game played. The victory enabled the Bruins to tie the New York Rangers for fourth place, the circuit's last playoff spot.

The Bruins led all the way but brilliant goal-tending by Detroit's Terry Sawchuk kept the score down. The Bruins outshot the Wings, 40-22. The victory also was Boston's second over Detroit in nine meetings.

Dave Creighton shot Boston into the lead with a goal in the first period while Detroit's Gordie Howe was in the penalty box. Rookie Red Sullivan and Johnny Peirson sewed it up with second period tallies. Pierson dashed the length of the ice and scored unassisted while his team was shorthanded.

Defenseman Red Kelly spoiled goalie Jim Henry's shutout bid early in the final period with a 20-foot shot.

TO THE WINNER — Mud-spattered Ralph Neves received a congratulatory kiss from Betty Grable after riding the movie star's Big Noise to victory in the $25,000 California Breeders' Champion Stake at Santa Anita. (NEA Photo)

Clarence Henry, Satterfield Toss Punches Tonight

CHICAGO—(AP)—Cloutin' Clarence Henry, who has been likened to a young Joe Louis, and heavy-fisted Bob Satterfield will aim knockout punches tonight in a nationally televised 10 rounder at Chicago Stadium.

Henry 23, of Los Angeles, has been installed a better than 3 to 1 favorite. He is the third-ranking heavyweight contender and is undefeated in his last 12 fights.

Satterfield, a 28-year-old Chicagoan, was knocked out by Rex Layne and lost a decision to Wes Bascom in his last two fights.

Most ring experts look for the scrap to be full of sizzling action probably ending in a knockout. Henry has scored 16 kayoes. Satterfield has won 27 fights, 21 by knockouts.

Tonight's scrap is expected to draw close to 10,000 at the stadium.

Duke Star Holds 10 Cage Marks

AP Newsfeatures

DURHAM, N. C. — If Richard Morrow Groat, Duke University's great guard breaks any basketball records this season, chances are he'll shatter marks he established last year as a junior.

For Groat—Dick the Great, they call him—set 10 new records and tied another. Some of them were national, some Southern Conference and others Duke University marks.

Groat's achievements a year ago—

1. He set a national single season scoring record — 831 points, bettering the 740 points set by William and Mary's Chet Giermak in 1949.

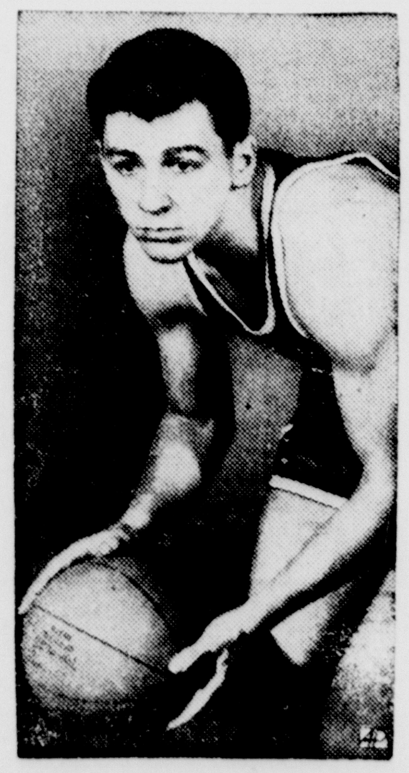
2. A national record for most free throws in a season—261.

3. A new Southern Conference regular season scoring record of 509 points.

4. Broke the Big Five (Duke, North Carolina, North Carolina State, Wake Forest and Davidson) regular season scoring record with 831 points. This record previously was held by North Carolina State's Sam Ranzino, who made 624 points in 1949-50.

5. Broke the Duke University single season scoring record set by Ed Koffenberger in 1947.

6. Broke the Duke four-year career record in a year and one-half of play, with 1,106 points.



DICK GROAT
Swissvale's Blue Devil

7. Set the Duke single game scoring record with 37 points against Davidson.

8. Set Duke free throw record against Davidson January 29 by shooting 17 of 17 free throws. He also made 14 of 15 against Washington and Lee.

9. Set a new Southern Conference tournament record for most points in entire tourney by scoring 85 points in three games against Virginia Tech, William and Mary and North Carolina State.

10. He is the only man in Duke basketball history ever to score more than 30 points in a single game and he accomplished this feat nine times last year. In rolling up his record of 831 points for the season, Groat scored 25 or more points 18 times and scored 20 or more 28 times. He failed to accomplish the latter feat only five times.

In addition, Groat tied the Southern Conference tournament record for most points scored in a regulation game with 31 points in each of Duke's games with William and Mary and North Carolina State.

Groat, only six feet tall, is the pride of Swissdale, Pa., a community a mile from Pittsburgh. He weighs 182 pounds, is 21 years old and is majoring in history.

Praise galore has poured in about Groat, who has had major league clubs tormenting him to sign a contract as a shortstop. As a diamond star last year, Dick hit .386 and made only eight errors in 179 chances.

Trojans Set New Gym Record In Defeating Bark River By 85-39

An all-time St. Joseph High School and Bonifas gymnasium scoring record was established last night by Coach Tom St. Germain's sharp-shooting Trojans who walloped Bark River-Harris 85-39.

A pair of free throws by Tom Brien, reserve, broke the former record of 84 set earlier this season by the Trojans at Gladstone. Brien dropped in his two charity tosses in the final minute of play.

The Trojans climbed back on the win wagon with amazing ease after losing their last two starts. St. Joe raced to a 32-3 lead in the first period of play before Coach St. Germain drew his front-liners out of action.

Reserves In Action

In the second period the Trojans were represented by Bob Sendenburgh, Jim Zimmerman, Jerry McDonough, Don Legault and Dick Cass, the latter being the only starter to remain in action.

The reserves added 23 points in the second period to give St. Joe a halftime total of 55 points, also a new St. Joe scoring record.

The Trojan starting five returned to action in the third period but retired to the benth after two minutes of play. Reserves continued to see action throughout the remainder of the game with a sprinkling of veterans to form a nucleus.

Although St. Joe was busy scoring its highest total of this or any other season, the highest scoring Trojan of them all was performing in a new role. Pete Kutches, center, shot frequently in the first period and netted seven points, but missed the bucket on a number of occasions.

In Feeding Role

From there on in Kutches switched to a feeding role instead of his usual scoring game. He faked, feinted, passed, dribbled and did everything but score baskets while his mates poured on the coal.

Early in the final period Kutches, who played about half a game, added another field goal to bring his total for the season to 263 points.

Cass, a sophomore celebrating his promotion to the starting five, banged in 23 points in two and a half quarters of play for high point honors. Cass hit 10 field goals and three of six free shots.

Guard Jim Gravelle was second high in the scoring totals with 15 points and Bill Baker registered 10. All 11 players on the St. Joe squad saw action and each one contributed to the new scoring record.

Groncos Foul Out

Coach Paul Winnikainen's Bark River Broncos were hopelessly behind from the first period but stuck gamely and scored 18 points in the final quarter.

Three Bark River starters were lost on fouls. Guard Jack Good drew his fourth personal two minutes before the end of the first period.

The victory was the eighth in 10 games for St. Joe. The Trojans return to action Saturday night in a road game against the Munising Mustangs.

Coach Don Dufresne's St. Joseph Bees won 58-26 in the preliminary.

Name New Pros Dallas Texans

PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — A quick switch of names and an even quicker flourish of a pen combined to give the National Football League a new member today, to be known as the Dallas Texans.

Both moves were masterminded yesterday in the Philadelphia headquarters of the league by Giles E. Miller, a Texas textile tycoon. Miller, 31 years old and head of a 16-member syndicate from the Lone Star state, thus becomes the youngest president in the NFL.

With loop commissioner Bert Bell, Miller completed an agreement to purchase a franchise plus title to the players under contract to Ted Collins and the New York Yanks. The syndicate paid $100,000 cash and agreed to put up $200,000 more at the rate of $25,000 annually.

Pay Off Debt

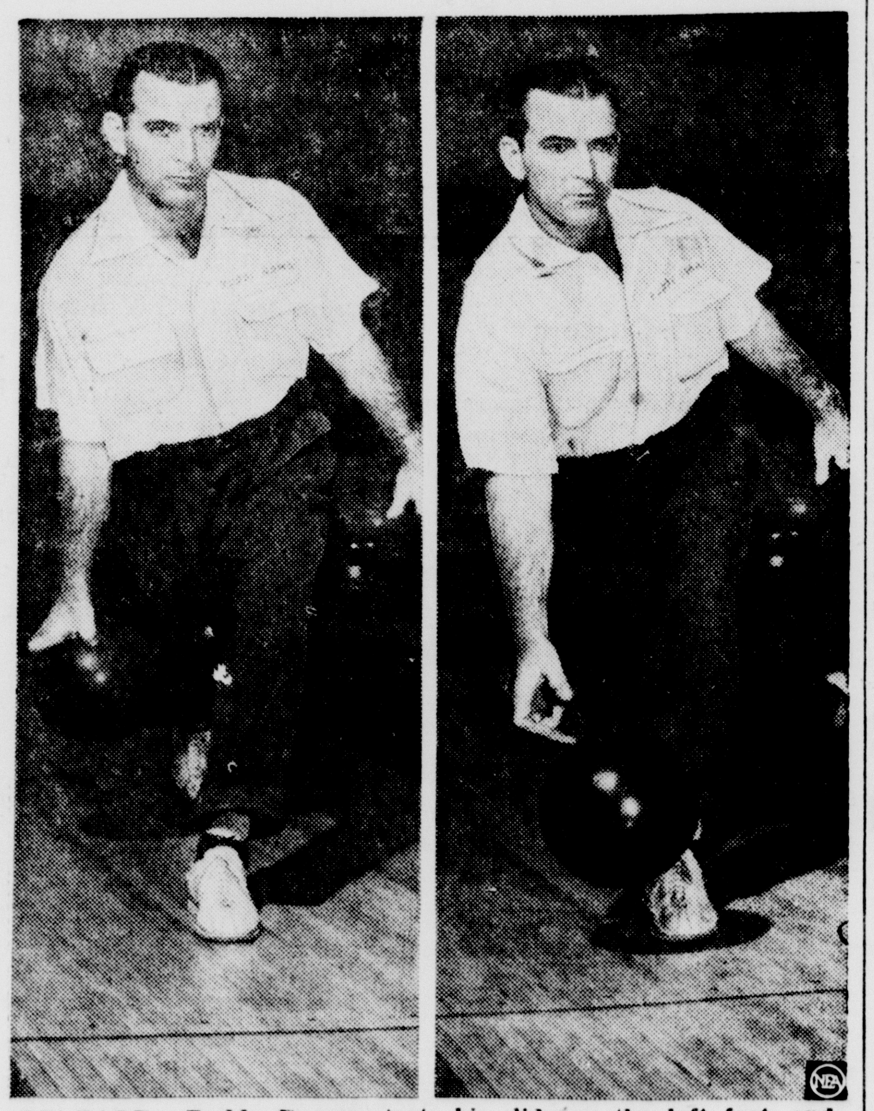
The $200,000 will go to pay off the league's debt to the New York baseball Yankees covering a rental contract with the football Yanks for use of Yankee Stadium.

The decision on the club's name was a big surprise as both Miller and the league had previously indicated the entry would be called the Texas Rangers. Miller offered no reason for the switch but it was believed decided upon to avoid confusion should Houston or any other Texas city ever receive a NFL franchise.

On the question of who will coach the Texans and whether Negroes will play for the team, Miller said:

"Places on our team are open strictly on the basis of ability without regard to race or creed," and, "We have made no decision on a head coach." Three of the backs the Texans acquire from the Yanks, Buddy Young, Sherman Howard and George Talliaferro are Negroes.

Release With Lifting Motion; Let It Drop On Alley Over Line



RELEASE—Buddy Bomar starts his slide on the left foot, and releases the ball. (NEA)

Sixth of an instructive series written and illustrated for NEA Service

BY BUDDY BOMAR
Former Match-Game Champion

Starting the slide on the left foot, the ball has just reached the bottom of its arc on the downswing.

The slide is important. It should be from 10 to 15 inches long to insure a gliding, relaxed motion as the ball is released.

The right arm should be straight and fully extended with the right elbow in close to the body.

Do not bend too far from the waist delivering the ball.

Bend your knees.

Don't dip excessively to one side.

You don't have to set the ball down on the alley. Release it with a lifting motion and let it drop on the alley out over the foul line.

The right foot swings to the left side of the body to help retain perfect balance. The left arm, too, serves this purpose.

The thumb and forefinger of my right hand form a V toward my target.

The thumb comes out of the ball first.

The four fingers impart stuff to the ball with a lifting motion as I send the ball out over the foul line.

Do not twist your wrist. That will not add anything but spin.

I am relaxed and balanced even through the action is very fast and strenuous.

This ultimate relaxation is the result of being comfortable in performing each of the earlier steps in approaching the foul line.

One small, tense movement will ruin the easy motion necessary to improve your score.

NEXT The follow through.

Pioneers Whip Sentinels 11-4

HOUGHTON— The Portage Lake Pioneers overwhelmed the Marquette Sentinels in Dee stadium last night by a score of 11 to 4.

The game was more exciting than the score would indicate as the Sentinels at the start of the third period were just one goal behind the Lakes. Jackie Ruelle, scoring four goals, played the best game of his career and he was ably supported by the Portage Lake 'Kid' line.

Ruohonen, Ruelle and Joe Bukovich scored for the Lakes in the first stanza while Swenor and Van Overloop tallied for the Sentinels.

In the second period, Hermanson and Ruelle poked the rubber into the net for Portage while Vanoverloop tallied for the visitors.

In the final canto, which was disastrous for Marquette, Vasseau made the lone Sentinel score while Joe Bukovich, Ruelle (2), Hermanson, Taddeuci and Tony Bukovich scored for the Lakes.

Portage played without the services of Mike Bukovich and Bernie Ruelle, leading stars of the team.

In his six years in the major leagues, Ralph Kiner has received 661 bases on balls, 489 of them in the last four seasons.

Hawks Host To Calumet

There are at least three solid reasons why the Escanaba Hawks would like to beat the Calumet Radars in the Northern Michigan Hockey league clash at the fairgrounds rink tonight.

(1) A win over Calumet would be a big step toward second place which is now occupied by Calumet.

(2) The Hawks haven't lost on home ice since January 9, and the record shows successive victories over Marquette and the defending champion Portage Lake Pioneers.

(3) That loss on January 9 was to Calumet by a 7-5 margin and it came as somewhat of a surprise since it was Calumet's first win on Escanaba ice. In three appearances here last season, the Hawks tipped Calumet twice and one ended in a 6-6 deadlock. Revenge is the motive here.

They're Tough

Without a doubt, a rip-roaring battle is in prospect tonight. Calumet held Portage Lake to a 3-3 tie in Calumet last Saturday night before 1,600 Copper Country fans.

What with Escanaba puncturing the Portage Lake bubble here last Wednesday and Calumet's youngsters coming along fast, it can safely be said that Calumet is performing at just about top peak in the league now. As the players say among themselves, Calumet is the team to beat for the championship although anyone who counts out the Bukovich-powered Pioneers at any time should have his head examined.

In addition to its youngsters, Whitey Juopperi, Mort Wiinimaki, John Dahlgren, Milt Makolin and the Lehto brothers, Pete and Wayne, the Calumet Radars have ever-reliable Don Nichols on hand and old Frank "Puppy" Gresnick back in the saddle.

Not In The Book

Gresnick had to sit out four games for hitting Mel Bertrand, Escanaba official, over the shoulder with his stick.

As someone said facetiously yesterday: As rough a game as hockey undoubtedly is, it still isn't permissible to hit the referee over the head, shoulder or anyplace else. But Gresnick has served out his suspension time and is back among them again.

To say the least it will be interesting to watch how Gresnick and Bertrand eye each other during tonight's fracas. Gresnick, a fiery warrior of 25 hockey years, might "go for broke" again if he becomes incensed enough.

With a week's rest behind them, Escanaba's Hawks are eager to swing back into action. Without missing stride they hope to reach the peak of play they did against Portage Lake.

Poce, Broughton Back

That means they fully well realize they must warm up 15 minutes before game time, start fast to keep Calumet from getting the jump on them and then play a close checking and smooth passing game.

"We know we'll have to go the limit against Calumet, and we're ready to do it," Coach Mark Olson said this morning.

Guy Poce and Ed Broughton have whipped the flu bug and will be back in action, as will John Cortopassi and Jerry Taggliabracci. The Hawks, at full strength, are raring to go.

Rapid River Slugs Cooks With 70-40 Central Loss

COOKS — Coach Norman Slough's Rapid River cagers laid down a withering barrage of field goals here last night to bury Cooks 70-40 in a U. P. Central Conference clash.

The Cooks quint held tight in the first period and matched the Rockets basket for basket. End of the period found Rapid leading 15-14. Coach Bob Thibault's Cooks boys fell off in the second period, however, and trailed 34-23 at halftime.

Sophomore forward Weldon Johnson, 6-2 tall, led the way as Rapid River opened up in the second half. To his first half total of six points he added 18 for a game total of 24, high for both teams.

Four High Scorers

Rapid had four front-liners on a scoring spree. Besides Johnson, there were Merrill Pedersen, Bill Goodman and George Anderson who all hit in double figures

It was the second win in a row for Rapid River and cemented second place in the conference standings. Their scoring total gives the Rockets 145 points in their last two starts.

Cooks gained a measure of revenge in the Bee game preliminary, waltzing off with a 63-44 victory.

Braves Entertain Norway Friday; May Be Turning Point In Season

GLADSTONE—Friday evening the Gladstone Braves will entertain Norway on the local court. A double bill is offered local fans with the reserve teams of the two schools meeting in a preliminary.

The win chalked up against Newberry last Saturday night has proved a morale builder and the Braves are showing a different attitude in practice sessions this week.

Fans are of the opinion that this is the turning point and foes of the Braves are going to have some busy evenings from now on through tournament time.

Coach Eldon Keil plans no change in the lineup with Jerry Norick at center, Lowell LaPlant and Roger Beauchamp at forwards and Capt. Tom Moreau and Martin Becker at guards.

In reserve will be Harold Goodyer, Norman Boutilier, Duane Peterson, Tom LaLonde and Don Timler.

Kansas Center Has Scoring Average Of 27 Per Game

NEW YORK — (AP) — Clyde Lovellette, Kansas' rangy center, has strengthened his grip on first place in the major-college individual scoring race, according to figures released today by the NCAA service bureau.

Although his team dropped from the ranks of the unbeaten at the hands of rival Kansas State last Saturday, Lovellette still managed to find the range for 31 points to boost his average to 26.9 per game. The skyscraping Jayhawker has amassed 376 markers in 14 games.

Kentucky still is the top point-producing team with an average 83.7 points per outing.

High Jump Star Eyes Seven Feet

New York—(AP)—Along with all the talk about four-minute miles and 60-foot shotputs, there emerged a new "impossible" track record to shoot at today—the seven-foot high jump.

If anyone ever is going to make seven feet—at least in this day and age—the votes goes to J. Lewis (Pappa) Hall, a junior at the University of Florida, who divides his time between football and leaping over the high bar.

A husky halfback, he's the present NCAA high jump champion, having gone up six feet, nine inches in last year's title meet, the second highest in the 30-year history of the event, by the way.

Everything Right

"I think that someday someone will make seven feet," said Pappa, who is making the rounds of the indoor meets for the first time. "Of course, everything will have to be just right—attitude, physical condition, boards and the like."

He's a confident youngsters, and already is being compared to Les Steers, who shares the indoor record of six feet, 9¾ inches with Bill Stewart. That should be within Hall's reach.

Pappa took a try at snapping Steers' world outdoor mark of six feet 11 inches last season when he made his 6-9 effort. He failed miserably with the bar at 6-11⅛ twice, but the third try, he was over, on his back and watched the crossbar just topple.

CHICAGO — (AP)—The Chicago White Sox today announced they would play an exhibition game with the Milwaukee Brewers in Milwaukees new, 27,500-seat municipal stadium the night of July 31. The stadium will be completed a week or so before the game.

Famed Auto Racer Mauri Rose Quits

INDIANAPOLIS —(AP)— Mauri Rose, one of the best competitors in any sport, has retired from auto racing.

Mauri Rose

For the last 15 Memorial Day, 500-mile races at Indianapolis Motor Speedway, the top drivers considered Rose the man to beat. He won in 1947 and 1948 and was co-winner with Floyd Davis in 1941. He was leading in 1949, 20 miles from the finish, when a broken magneto strap forced him out of the race.

Years ago, fire broke out in his pit while he was refueling. He leaped into the car with smoke and carbon dioxide fumes still swirling around the cockpit and roared back into the race.

Didn't Show Fear

A cocky little guy with a big moustache and bigger pipe, if Rose ever knew fear he didn't show it. He smashed his car to pieces in the 1945 race. A few minutes later he was strolling calmly through the pits, charging his pipe.

Last Memorial Day his car lost a wheel and landed upside down in the infield. He survived because he knew how to hang on—and because he dropped into deep mud. Again he was back in the garage area a few minutes later showing no signs of nerves.

But the chances Mauri didn't mind taking for himself, he can't take for his two children, he decided. The mother of Mauri Jr., 10, and Dory, 8, is dead. Mauri is divorced from his second wife. He has decided, he said last night at his home in Van Nuys, Calif., he can't afford to risk his life now.

Won $86,000

Rose is 46 years old, an engineer at Lockheed Aircraft Corp., Burbank, Calif. He joined the firm recently after being an engineer at the Studebaker Corp. plant in South Bend, Ind., for several years.

Since World War II, Rose had raced only in the rich Memorial Day "500", but he also had been a noted dirt track driver. He was the American Automobile Association's national driving champion in 1936 and had been runner-up in 1934.

He had driven more competitive miles over the Indianapolis Motor Speedway than any other driver except Cliff Bergere, also retired. He drove 15 times over the brick and asphalt track and won approximately $86,000.

St. Louis Billikins Hang Onto Win String

ST. LOUIS—(AP) — Undefeated St. Louis kept its Missouri Valley Conference lead intact but had to go some to mark up a 58-45 victory over University of Detroit last night.

Detroit put on a stiff fight in the first period and had squeezed to a halftime edge of 23-22. Then the Billikens staged a drive that gave them a 39-33 lead in the third quarter. They stayed ahead to win their fifth Valley contest in as many starts.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK — (AP) — One of the big reasons why professional football will be a rousing success at Dallas, we learn, is that 25 or 30 miles is a good, solid day's journey either by ox team or on horseback.

We are indebted for this interesting piece of information to Giles Miller, the dark, rather chubby young man of 31 who negotiated the purchase of the New York Yanks and will preside as president of the new Dallas Texans as soon as he learns a few more things about the business.

Giles was explaining how he figures that Dallas, whose official population is listed at only 433,000, actually has 1,500,000 potential customers right around close—that is, within easy driving distance.

Trading Posts

"Back in the old days," he said, "A man who had done 25 miles or better was ready to put up for the night. So every so often there was one of these trading posts, and now they've all become towns. You go out from Dallas in any direction and you'll hit one.

"Take if you're driving over to Fort Worth, which is quite a big trading post now. It's 35 miles, but all the way you'll never be outside the city limits of some town like Grand Prairie and Arlington. All around a circle outside Dallas it's the same. We figure we'll draw fans from 100-200 miles around. People down there think nothing of driving that far to see a good football game."

The young textile tycoon made a fine impression in his first joust with the metropolitan press. When he could, he gave easy, straight-forward answers to the questions tossed at him, including the inevitable one concerning the three Negro players on the Texans' roster. He said he felt they would get along fine.

No Texas Accent

When Giles—as he insisted upon being called—didn't know the answer, he said something to the effect that that was a long ways down the road yet. During one break in the conversation, while the young president helped himself to a fresh bottle of beer, one of his questioners leaned over and whispered: "Didja notice, he doesn't even talk with a Texas accent."

One came away from soiree feeling that the professional footballers have, through no effort on their part, added a great deal of strength and financial stamina to their circuit, and that the money game might be on the verge of a surprising growth.

The Texas group is talking modestly, saying it is counting on an average attendance of 25,000 its first season to break even, but it has high hopes of doing a great deal better than that. If the Texans have even a middling successful season, state pride will take care of the attendance figures.

The next logical step is, of course, to transfer another of the weaker Northern clubs down to Houston. This would at last make the league a truly national one in character and provide another agreeable sectional rivalry. Houston boasts a population of nearly 600,000 and claims to possess more millionaires to the acre than Dallas.

Aussie Notes

Air mail from Australia: Frank Sedgman will defend his American tennis crown at Forest Hills next summer only if the U S Association agrees to pay his bride's expenses from Wimbledon onward. The Australian Association does not pick up the tab for wives.

Ian Ayre, the brilliant new Aussie star from Brisbane, probably will not be seen on this side of the world as he, too, has gotten himself married in the past month. Lewis Hoad and Ken Rosewall, the sensational juniors, will be over.

Olympic Ski Officials OK Action On Pregnant Skier

ST. ANTON, Austria — (AP)— Officials of the United States Olympic skiing team were in accord today over the action taken in the case of Mrs. Suzanne Harris Rytting who was dropped from the women's team because she is pregnant.

Mrs. Rytting was sent home from Switzerland on Jan. 15 and told the Salt Lake Tribune: "I certainly think I was treated shabbily."

John Herbert, Washington, D. C., ski team manager said in a letter to Courtland T Hall, Olympic ski committee chairman: "We feel we took the only possible action under the circumstances." He said a Swiss doctor said tests showed Mrs. Rytting was pregnant.

Herbert, and Mrs. Gretchen Fraser, Vancouver, Wash., women's team manager, said Mrs. Rytting was sent home after Swiss doctors said she was going to have a baby and advised against her racing.

Mrs. Rytting claimed in a letter to Gustin G. Vorse of Salt Lake City, president of the Intermountain Ski Association, that Swiss doctors informed her they could not be sure she was pregnant and that "even if I were, there would be no danger and I could continue racing."

Hill said in New York last week that the committee was drafting a letter of apology to Mrs. Rytting.

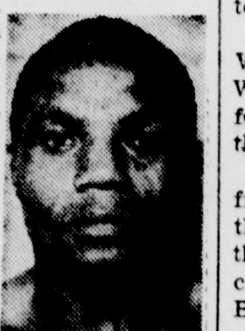
Hill, after reading Herbert's letter today said:

"I didn't know then that medical tests in Switzerland had definitely established Mrs. Rytting's pregnancy.'

"Now that I have learned from team officials the full circumstances, I am convinced they acted correctly."

Manager Of Walcott To Confer On Bout

HARRISBURG, Pa.—(AP)—Felix Bocchichio, manager of world heavyweight champion Jersey Joe Walcott, was scheduled to confer today with an actor's agent in Washington, D. C., about a $250,000 offer to Walcott to defend his title against Harry (Kid) Matthews. Bocchichio made the announcement as he and the champion stopped here last night on the way to a personal appearance engagement at Lewistown, Pa.



Joe Walcott

Walcott then boxed a five-round exhibition with Jackie Burke of Pittsburgh, as some 600 persons looked on.

After the bout Walcott told the crowd that he was "not interested in money, but in saving the youth of the country, which is more important than defending my title."

Walcott has been ordered by the New York State Athletic commission to sign for a title bout by Feb. 5 or forfeit the title in that state.

Actress Not Named

The proposed bout between Walcott and Matthews would be held in Los Angeles, Detroit or Las Vegas, Nev. The actor's agent was identified as Harry Hunt of Los Angeles.

Matthews is rated as one of the top light-heavyweight contenders.

Bocchichio told reporters the offer was made by an actress and would carry additional fees for television rights. He did not identify the actress.

Jack Hurley, Matthews' manager, has said Matthews is willing to campaign as a heavyweight.

Bocchichio said that after the Washington conference he and Walcott will go to Florida to confer with Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club.

He said they will seek a release from contractual agreements with the IBC. Walcott has signed with the IBC giving that group his exclusive services for five years, Bocchichio added.

If Norris agrees, Bocchichio said, Walcott will be ready to defend his title against Ezzard Charles, former heavyweight titleholder, or Rocky Marciano, Brockton, Mass., battler who recently kayoed Joe Louis.

Lawrence Tech's Cage Coach Takes Team Off Of Court

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Coach Don Rider took his Lawrence Tech basketball players off the floor last night, trailing John Carroll by 65-60 and with six seconds to go.

He declared it was the "worst officiating I've seen in 15 years—and explained "I just thought we'd better get out of there before trouble started."

There was a wild melee under the Carroll basket just before the coach pulled of the Michigan team.

Grunewald Listed For Contempt In Tax Scandal Quiz

"shakedown" and other tax cases.

Grunewald's name has repeatedly cropped up in recent tax fraud hearings involving high government officials and influence peddling.

The most sensational involvement, however, was the charge by Abraham Teitelbaum, Chicago attorney, that an effort had been made to shake him down for $500,000 to "fix" a tax case under threat of "bad trouble" back in Washington

Grunewald has been identified as the good friend of Charles Oliphant, who resigned dramatically as chief counsel of the Internal Revenue Bureau after Teitelbaum said he was told Oliphant belonged to a Washington "clique" looking for "soft touches."

Cairo, Ill., Home Bombed In Dispute Over Negro Pupils

CAIRO, Ill. — (AP) — A Cairo Negro doctor's home was bombed last night in the first flare up of violence occurring during preparations to admit Negro pupils to city schools previously limited to whites.

The physician, Dr. U. F. Bass, his wife and four small children escaped injury. An unoccupied rear bedroom was demolished.

Today federal bureau of investigation agents and Illinois state police joined local authorities in an investigation. They declned comment immediately.

Only two nights before, three fiery crosses were burned in and around Cairo Negro sections. That was on the eve of the date agreed upon between the national association for the advancement of colored people and school officials to admit 23 Negroes in white schools.

Racial segregation is forbidden in Illinois school systems.

The Negro pupils were told to return to their own schools until they would be notified individually that their transfer papers were ready.

Cairo is Illinos' southernmost city, at the Kentucky-Missouri borders.

Progress Noted Toward Armistice Accord In Korea

munist position. Originally they opposed any rotation at all.

In the subcommittee session on prisoner exchange, North Korean Maj. Gen. Lee Sang Cho analyzed the U. N. command proposal point by point. He expressed agreement in principle on a number of points but showed no change in attitude on key issues blocking agreement.

Lee accused the Allies of holding to an "unreasonable and obstinate attitude' on three crucial questions:

1. Voluntary repatriation. The Reds want all prisoners of war exchanged whether they like it or not.

2. The U. N. proposal that certain prisoners would be released on parole not to fight in the Korean war again. This would remove thousands of former South Korean soldiers from the North Korean army.

3. The Allied step-by-step exchange plan. Lee refers to it as a "one-for-one" plan. Allies hold ten times as many prisoners as the Reds. The Communists want an all-for-all exchange.

Cashier Of Theater Gagged And Robbed, Collapses And Dies

The gag was removed, and Walter gasped:

Police later said about $250 was missing from the theater. An assistant medical examiner said Heyer apparently died of a heart attack.

Wall Street

By RICHARD FISKE

NEW YORK — (AP) — Stock prices were well mixed today as the market hovered around a 21-year average high.

Most gains and losses were less than a dollar a share. After a fairly active opening, trading slowed down somewhat.

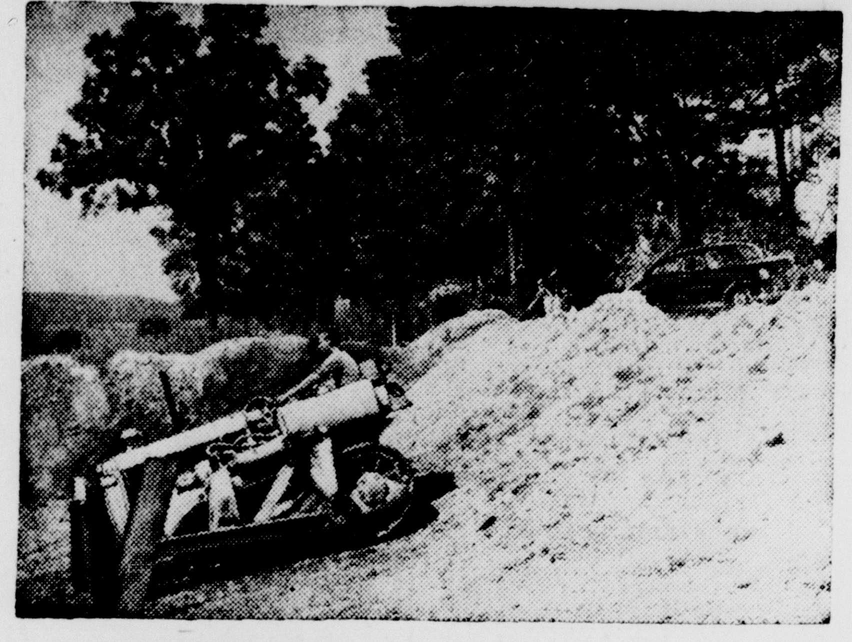
Steel and railroad issues made the best group showings. Elsewhere in the list a few favorites were in demand, while occasional soft spots developed.

Earnings reports of both carriers and steel producers for 1951, at least those which have emerged to date, have been regarded as not too discouraging in view of heavy tax charges made against income. And there was increasing talk that a steel price increase may be made under the provisions of the Capehart amendment.

U. S. Steel, whose earnings dropped 30 million dollars last year while its sales climbed half a billion dollars, was one of those in higher ground today. Others advancing included Bethlehem Steel, Union Pacific, Santa Fe, Goodyear, J. I. Case, Zenith Radio, Philco, American Woolen, Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron, U. S. Gypsum, Johns-Manville and American Tobacco.

Corporate bonds held within a narrow range, while U. S. governments stayed close to previous levels in over-the-counter dealings.

Fire Fighting Farmers Build Swimming Holes



BULLDOZER digs hole for a new farm pond.

By DAVID G. BAREUTHER
(AP)Newsfeatures Writer

America is rapidly becoming a land of small ponds. This is apparent to air line passengers who see the sun reflected from these silvery dots created by farmers for fire protection and recreation.

The government's Soil Conservation Service reports that 285,687 farm ponds have been planned under its direction and up to last June 30, a total of 216,445 of these projects had been completed.

These ponds, bringing the old swimmin' hole and fishing opportunities to many high and dry farms, are being built primarily for fire protection. Out beyond municipal fire hydrants, the lack of water has handicapped rural fire fighters. Ponds, dammed up streams, cisterns and even swimming pools are the answer to that need.

Save Money on Insurance

The current issue of the Farm Journal reports that New England farmers are getting reductions up to 25 per cent in their fire insurance premiums if they have a big pond piped to fire hydrants near their farm buildings. Another 25 per cent reduction is made in that section for conformance with such precautions as lightning rods, proper electric wiring and installation of extinguishers.

Fire prevention engineers of the National Board of Fire Underwriters have been working with the Soil Conservation Service in the pond building program. For insurance purposes, these experts consider an approved water supply to be one that will provide a minimum of 250 gallons of water per minute for one hour.

To be eligible for fire insurance rate credit, a pond or other approved water supply must be within 750 feet from all farm buildings and the farm must have a telephone.

3,000 Gallons of Water Needed

Where no brook can be dammed and no sizable pond can be kept filled, the engineers recommend a concrete cistern holding at least 3,000 gallons of water. This is the minimum capacity for the farmer's own protection.

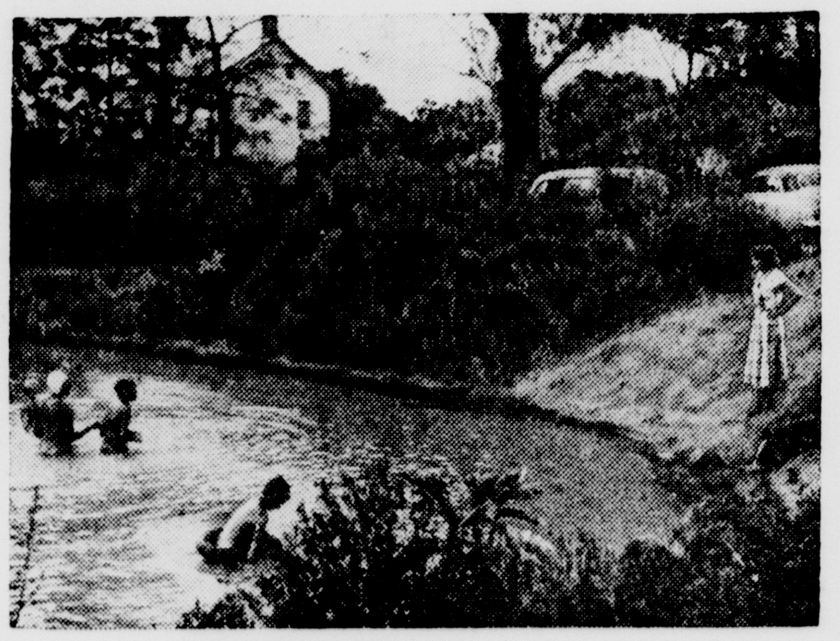
An important specification is that pumpers must be able to draw water even in winter. A novel method of solving this problem is reported in the Farm Journal, which suggests a brine barrel in the pond.

This is an ordinary oak cask, such as a cider barrel. One end is knocked out and the barrel is filled about a third full with water. A bucket of rock salt is dissolved in this, and the barrel is floated and anchored at the deep end of a pond near enough to shore to be reached by firemen.

The Brine Won't Freeze

When the pond is frozen over the barrel can be quickly demolished in an emergency with a few blows with an ax. Since the brine doesn't freeze, this leaves a hole in the ice through which a fire hose can be dropped.

In some states, conservation departments are stocking large farm ponds with fish free of charge. Usually a pond has to cover more than a half-acre and must be fed by a stream or springs in order to qualify for fish. In these cases farmers dump fertilizers into the ponds in the spring and harvest tasty crops of bass and trout later on.



OLD SWIMMIN' HOLE appears back on the farm.

Persian Lamb Coat Smuggled In Girdle By Two Shoplifters

NEW YORK—(AP)—Can a persian lamb coat be hidden inside a woman's girdle?

"It is physically impossible to do such a thing," said defense attorney Carson D. Baker yesterday at the trial of two women accused of shoplifting such a coat by concealing it under the girdle one of them wore.

But assistant district attorney James P. McGratton picked up a girdle entered in evidence. He wiggled his 180-pound frame and finally twisted the girdle over his hips. He picked up the coat in question and stuffed it inside.

Then, as he strutted back and forth before the jury, the prosecutor asked: "I leave it to you to decide whether it could or could not be done."

Sixty minutes later the jury found Margaret Walker, 30, and Mrs. Leary Wright, 47, both guilty.

On the Republican side, the names of Senator Taft of Ohio and Harold Stassen were entered in the March 11 New Hampshire presidential preference primary, first in the nation this year.

Backers of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower already have filed his GOP entry in New Hampshire and the 10-day period for withdrawal has passed.

Speedy Mail Carrier Hides It Under Porch

DETROIT—(AP)—Postal authorities were much impressed with Robert E. Butterfield's speed on his letter-carrying job.

The 19-year-old mailman was always the first one back from his route. His superintendent, Aloysius N. Revitte, regarded him as "one of my best young men."

Today it came out. Revitte said inspectors found 75 pieces of mail hidden under the youth's front porch.

Butterfield, son of a mail carrier who died in 1948, told officials:

"I wanted to make an impression on my superintendent by showing how fast I could deliver the mail."

Butterfield pleaded guilty before Federal Judge Arthur F. Lederle to unlawfully detaining the mail.

House Debates Bill To Stiffen Penalties For Drunken Hunters

LANSING—(AP)— The House scheduled debate today on two bills designed to cut hunting accidents.

One measure would require those involved in gun accidents to stop, identify themselves and give aid. The judiciary committee which reported the bill favorably, extended its provisions to include all shooting accidents. As introduced, it was limited to hunting accidents.

The other measure would stiffen penalties for hunting while drunk. Those convicted would be subject to usual misdeameanor penalties for being drunk and would be forbidden to receive a hunting license for three years.

Flint Stations Sell Gas For 18.4 Cents

FLINT, Mich. — (AP)—The retail price of Sunoco gasoline was pulled down to 18.4 cents a gallon here today in the newest skirmish of a growing price war.

That marked a cut of 3.3 cents a gallon from the prices most major dealers were offering. It was 10 cents or more below the level of most grades of gasoline at the start of the downhill race a week ago.

Other major retailers were expected to follow Sunoco's lead.

Man With Hiccups Since 1948 Falls Off To 78 Pounds

LOS ANGELES— (AP) — Jack O'Leary, who weighed 135 pounds before he was seized with the world's longest hiccuping attack more than three and a half years ago, is now down to 78.

The former market manager has been hiccuping at least once per second, except for two brief respites, since June 13, 1948. An appendix rupture brought them on.

O'Leary, 26, is losing weight because of his restricted diet and the fact that he can retain food only 20 minutes. He thus receives little nourishment from the little he can eat.

His diet: Toast and hot water for breakfast; peas or carrots and hot water for lunch; peas, carrots and toast for dinner.

Two hundred doctors and 20,000 letters suggesting remedies have failed to help him.

Aunt Jane Adams, 103, Thinks About Plowing

WHITESBURG, Ky.—(AP)— In the spring, 103-year-old "Aunt Jane" Adams' thoughts turn to plowing.

And as spring and her 104th birthday approached, those were her thoughts—"following the old plow and the family mule around the hillsides just like I used to do in the long ago."

"Aunt Jane" comes from a long-living family. Her 86-year-old brother, "Uncle Eli" Lucas, recently became the father of his 18th child. Her father, Aaron Lucas, died at the age of 103. Her grandfather lived to be 105.

"Here I am close around that, and years yet to live," she said. "I'll outgo any of them. I never felt better in all my life, and there's no reason why I won't go on."

Her birthday is Feb. 10.

Legislators Plan To Cut Off State Building In 1953

cover the hospital fund—yet.

This decision, if upheld, presumably would mean the end during the 1952 session of Michigan State College's proposed $1,500,000 library, the University of Michigan's $1,140,000 library storage building, as well as token payments to start its hospital rehabilitation, medical science building and rehabilitation of its natural science building.

Back To 1950

It would cover scores of projects at other colleges, hospitals and prisons.

Faced with the governor's proposed $354,000,000 budget for the next (1952-53) fiscal year, the committees were reported planning to go back to the last (1950-51) budet of $286,000,000 and start to build from there.

The present budget (1951-52) will reach $312,000,000 probably.

Members said they recognized they must appropriate an additional $18,000,000 for public schools under the sales tax diversion mandate and must provide for inflated food and supply costs, as well as for personnel in expanded hospitals.
